CONGRESSMEN are going home to rest and learn what their constituents think.

Like husbands going home late, they are thinking up a convincing story.

They have cut more than $350,000,000 off the national tax load. That's good.

Congress collected some of the money that Europe owes up. That's good. It is as well we did not try to collect all. We might not have got anything.

Congress appropriated $150,000,000 to be spent in five years on aviation. That sounds all right, but there isn't any American aviation worth speaking of, and that's bad.

THE Rockefeller Foundation spends money fighting disease, including the worst disease, which is ignorance. At present, seven distinguished men, scientists, professors and philosophers, representing seven European countries, are traveling here as guests of the Rockefeller foundation. One of them, Jacob F. Worm-Mueller, doctor of philosophy, economist and professor of modern history at Oslo, Norway, has written a book that should be translated from Norwegian into English. "Den Okonomiske [illegible] efter Napoleon's Krigene." That book, published by Grondahl & [illegible], translated into English, would enlighten Americans and particularly the British.

THE British will not like Prof. Worm-Mueller's views, but will be glad to know about them.

It was the development of steam power that rescued Europe and enabled her to pay her debts after Waterloo. Perhaps electric power will now pay for the big war, as steam paid Europe's debt after Napoleon.

Prof. Worm-Mueller believes that Britain's economic situation is most dangerous, more so than after Waterloo, when England had little competition.

Will Ivy Lee kindly have that book translated for the enlightenment of his clients?

VINVENT ASTOR, well-known New Yorker, back from Europe, says: "I didn't go to France because the French are antagonistic to Americans. There is none of that in England.

Mr. Astor is mistaken. The British are more tactful, not less antagonistic, especially when they deal with an American whose letter of credit is deep.

When a man sees another to whom he owes a large sum that he cannot pay, he is not glad to see that creditor. That's how Europe feels toward the United States.

Some sensitive flowers close if you touch them; "glass" snakes, it is said, break in pieces when handled, but the most sensitive, fragile thing is confidence in the capitalist's mind.

On Berlin's stock exchange a violent advance in prices follows the decision not to confiscate property of the former kaiser.

Jumping Ahead Of Geography

The school geographies do not show ZION NATIONAL PARK.

It has been created out of a wild, half known region since they were printed.

This newest scenic land of the great West contains wonders hitherto inaccessible.

Every well informed person will want to know about the new National Park in canyon land. A handsome illustrated booklet from our Washington Information Service tells the story in words and pictures.

"HELL'S HALF ACRE" HABITUE STILL HELD IN BEAVER JAIL

Acquitted of Murder, But Court Demands Good Behavior.

5-YEAR PLEDGE

Friends Seek Bail for Man Exonerated in Brother's Death.

Willis Miller, acquitted of a murder charge in connection with the fatal shooting of his brother, "Alabama Joe" Miller, reputed king of bootleggers in "Hell's Half Acre," near the state line last September, must post a $5,000 bond as a guarantee "to keep the peace and be of good behavior during a term of five years."

This was the ruling of Judge Frank E. Reader in the Beaver, Pa., common pleas court yesterday afternoon.

Taken Back to Jail.

"This court is satisfied that the testimony would have justified a verdict of guilty of homicide in some degree," said Judge Reader when he fixed the bond. Miller's attorney, Charles E. Stone, Beaver, who defended him during the murder trial, was in the court room when the prisoner was brought from the jail to face the judge.

Miller was sent back to jail until relatives can arrange for his bond. The bond is required under an old English law which the court invoked after the jury had returned a verdict of not guilty in the murder trial.

Miller claimed that he killed his brother in self-defense. He fled into West Virginia after the shooting and finally went to his home at Ironton, where he was arrested and returned to Beaver.

At the time of the shooting Miller is said to have been working for the Crucible Steel company, Midland.

ROY LOEFFLER FALLS FROM HIS TRICYCLE IN MOTOR VEHICLE'S PATH

Adopted Son of C. L. Weaver, Commerce Street, is Victim of Traffic Accident.

ACCIDENT OCCURS NEAR HIS HOME

Youngster, Riding Along Street, Tumbles in Front of Machine and is Crushed to Death.

Roy Loeffler, five years old, adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Weaver, 1733 Commerce street, Wellsville, was instantly killed at noon today when he fell from his tricycle beneath the rear wheel of a loaded coal truck in Commerce street, a short distance from his home.

The child was horribly crushed, the rear wheel of the truck passing directly over his hips.

The vehicle, operated by the firm of Martin and Kaul, of East Liverpool, was driven by Robert Martin, of 513 Eleventh street, Wellsville, and, it is said, had just left the Runyon scales and was proceeding eastward when the accident occurred. Martin has practically been exonerated from blame by city officials.

Foster Mother Prostrated

According to persons who saw the tragedy, Martin, headed toward Seventeenth street, was compelled to pull out in the middle of the street to pass a car parked on the right hand side of Commerce.

The Loeffler boy, riding his tricycle in the middle of the street, passed the front of the truck. Whether he fell from the tricycle or ran into the wheels is not certain. Martin, driving slowly, stopped the vehicle within 15 feet of the boy's body.

The child's father is living in Barnesville, Belmont county. His mother is dead. For a number of years he has been staying with the Weavers. Weaver is a Pennsylvania railroad mail clerk.

The lad's foster-mother was almost prostrated by the shock of the tragedy.

The body was removed to the D. N. McLean funeral home.

Turk, who has retained Attorney George T. Farrell, Lisbon, to represent him, waived preliminary examination. MANY DOCTORS AND LAWYERS WOULD MAKE BETTER BRICKLAYERS, KENTUCKIAN TELLS ROTARIANS

Many of our present-day doctors and lawyers would make better bricklayers than professional men, Col. William G. Archer, Owensboro, Ky., sanitation engineer and representative of the National Trade Extension bureau, told 100 persons at a Ladies' night party given by members of the Rotary Club at the Country Club last evening.

He declared that America faces a serious problem through the failure of young men to learn the building trade crafts, pointing out that thousands of men are needed to fill plumbing, bricklaying, plastering and other building jobs.

"We are developing in America today millions of lounge loafers and flappers," he said. "Take the graduating class in your high schools today today and pick out one student who has learned anything during those four years which will assist him in earning a livelihood unless he expects to continue his studies in college. I am not opposed to education but I believe that there are many young men in high school who are missing their calling by not spending those four years in learning a useful trade."

Musical Program Given.

The program was featured by a musical program in which Miss Mildred Weaver, soprano, Rowland T. Kaufman, tenor, and Attorney Blaine H. Cochran, baritone, took part. Their numbers included solos and duets. Miss Lucille Orin and Mrs. Danks Cochran were the accompanists.

President Malcolm Thompson presided, while Dr. C. H. Bailey was toastmaster. The chorus singing was led by Attorney Cochran, assisted by Dr. Colin F. Kinsey, with Mrs. Cochran at the piano.

Arthur W. Byron, master mechanic at the Wellsville shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, was introduced as a new member of the club.

The program was opened with a vocal solo, "On the Road to Mandalay," sung by Attorney Cochran, with Mrs. Danks Cochran as accompanist. Mr. Cochran repeated the chorus as an encore.

This was followed by two duet numbers by Miss Weaver and Mr. Kaufman, who first sang "The Serenade," by Randegger, followed by "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," by Tate. Miss Orin was the accompanist. Miss Weaver then gave two solo numbers, "Pastoral," by Carey, and "The Cunning Little Thing," by Hageman, with Miss Orin rendering the accompaniment.

Following Col. Archer, Mr. Kaufman rendered two solo numbers, "Nocturne," by Pearl G. Curran, and "Vale," by Kennedy Russell. The musical program was concluded with a duet selection by Miss Weaver and Mr. Kaufman. The number was "The Indian Love Call" from "Rose Marie."

WEIRTON SCENE OF TWO FIRES

Pool Room and Residence Gutted by Flames Early Today.

Two fires which occurred at an early hour today resulted in a loss of approximately $7,000 in Weirton. Origin of the blazes has not been determined.

The fire department was called about 2 o'clock to the Coal Valley pool room in Main street where after a hard fight the flames were extinguished. The building, which is owned by George Lornetan was damaged to the extent of $2,000.

Two hours later an alarm was sounded from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harper Nelson in Harmon avenue. The flames spread rapidly and as the firemen were handicapped by lack of fire plugs in that section of the city the home was totally destroyed. The owner, George Dain, estimated the loss at $5,000 to building and contents.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, were not at home having left yesterday for a visit in Youngstown.

PROVEN PUDDING by SAMUEL MERWIN

©1925 BY THE CONSOLIDATED MAGAZINES CORPORATION RELEASED THROUGH CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Bee and Lou are modern girls sharing a Greenwich Village apartment. Bee is an actress, at present in the chorus, but keeping a stiff upper lip and a fond hope of success. Into the Village comes Delia, frail poetress of New England, seeking freedom from the repressions of her home. And Bee, a school chum of the freedom seeker, invites her to share their apartment. Delia is determined to win through to the freedom she came for. She is left alone in the apartment, as Bee goes off to practice at the theatre.

Now go on with story.

CHAPTER THREE.

Delia, her coat thrown carelessly aside but her hat still on, sat quietly in the wicker chair by the window; quietly, but her slim fingers were tightly clasped. She unclasped them only to twist her handkerchief into a tight ball. People moved about in the street and park below, assured New Yorkers. Tomorrow she'd go up to the Metropolitan Museum. And perhaps Times Square in the evening to see the electric signs. It wouldn't be like Worcester. She ought to unpack and hang up her things. But she couldn't. Not yet. There were sounds here in the building. A telephone rang and rang somewhere below. She wished they'd answer it. A pleasant boyish voice called up the stairs and a girl called back something or other. Others lived here, too. She wondered about them. Those voices had a jolly, free-and-easy sound. The boy, or man, ran up a flight of stairs; a door opened and closed; more faintly she could hear their voices. So they visited around in one another's rooms. Of course, though. Greenwich Village. You wouldn't have to keep thinking frantically about the observances, as in Worcester. Yes, they still did that in Worcester, the older people. The younger ones kept their own counsel. It would have be honester here—Freedom!

Her fingers moved curiously toward the box that Bee had said was Russian. A yellow and green boy and girl against a red background. Very gay. She opened it. There were the cigarettes. She had never smoked enough to feel comfortable about it. She lighted one and tried to hold it with a casual naturalness between the first and third fingers. And decided not to puff so hard.

Her eyes rested on the book-shelves. Modern-looking volumes in black and orange and red. There was Freud on Dreams and Psycho-analysis. She had meant for years to read Freud. But there'd been little extra money at home for books. Besides, the family were forever in and out of her room, and Freud would have disturbed their Puritan calm. There were many volumes of poetry, by men and women she'd never heard of. She glanced into two or three; free verse, for the most part, each page with its challenge in the new bold manner that stirred a long-suppressed tingle in her blood.

And below, the street door opened and closed, a muffled sound. Then steps on the stairs. One flight they mounted, then another — the third, very near. A man, she thought. Now he was coming slowly along the hall; he stood a long moment outside. She heard a rustling and a faint jingle; then a key grated into the lock and turned.

She neither moved nor spoke. She couldn't.

The door opened. Yes, it was a man—young, blond, slender. Not a strong sort. She caught a quick impression of small features, a sensitive down-drooping mouth, very pale eyes with confusion in them. Though of good height, he moved almost like a girl and seemed small. She noted a slender white hand on the door knob, a remarkable sensitive hand. He carried a parcel rolled up in a newspaper and a wooden box with a handle.

All he said was "Oh!" And stood there.

She was frightened, a little, and altogether confused; and yet she had to repress a giggle. After all, why not adventure? Let it come rushing at you? Why not?

"I didn't suppose there'd be any body here," he said; forlornly, she thought. His voice was gentle and pitched rather high.

"Neither did I." That somewhat hysterical giggle again. She felt his wan eyes on her and caught herself.

"You may have heard the girls speak of me. I'm Wilbur Sayles."

"I haven't heard them speak of anybody. I—I just came." What a thin little voice hers was!

"Well—" he partly closed the door, then hesitated. "Do you mind if I come in? I'm supposed to—well, to wait here."

"So am I."

This reassured him. He did close the door. Dropped parcel and box on the couch and sank down beside them. Then abruptly he covered his face with his hands and swayed back and forth. She watched him, all alert curious interest, fascinated indeed. He looked almost as if he might be going to cry.

"Don't you feel well?" she heard herself asking. In a prim little voice which the new freedom in her spirit instantly and hotly resented. It mustn't sound like that. She would learn to talk easily and prettily, like Bee. Breathe more deeply.

"I feel like the devil. Oh, not health. It's mental."

"Oh! That's too bad." Still prim, in spite of that inner struggle. Could it be that she was, with all said and done, nothing but a congenial little spinster from Worcester?

He jumped up, giving her a start, and went to the window. Stared down into the park. "I'm afraid I've done a terrible thing."

Certainly this strange youth was full of self, and made no bones about it. "Natural," she thought. "Perfectly natural. I must be natural too."

'Now that I've done it, I've got to believe that Lou was right. I've got to. You know Lou?"

"No, I don't. I've never even seen her."

"Then you're a friend of Bee's?" She nodded.

"Bee's a peach. Just a born good scout. Take her right now, you'd never know what she's up against."

"Is she in trouble?"

"Oh, yes. But you wouldn't know. Out of work for months. She picked up this chorus job to keep alive. She had a pretty good part promised with the Guild, but they decided on a taller girl. And she got her notice last week, over here."

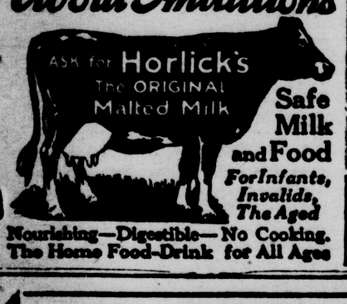

"Got her notice?"

"Yes. Out. Saturday night. But Bee always keeps up a front."

Ten Years of Suffering Ended When He Took Dreco

Says He Was a Complete Wreck and Must Have Taken a Barrel of Medicine Without Getting Any Better.

The following statement was given to the Dreco man by Mr. John Gostosri, 1032 Walter street, Pittsburgh, Pa. He says:

For about ten or twelve years I have suffered so with my stomach my whole system became rundown. I ate scarcely anything but even then I would be in great distress with indigestion. I could not eat solid foods of any kind and I was so constipated my abdomen felt like it was filled with solid rock. I was also troubled with sick headaches and was so nervous I shook like I had the palsy. My liver was also very sluggish which made me suffer from dizzy spells that caused me to stagger so I overheard my friends say "John is drunk." I could not sleep at night and just seemed to lose all my strength.

"Dreco has surely done wonders for me. Before I began on it I must have taken a barrel of other medicine without getting a blessed bit of relief, yet Dreco made me well in seven weeks. Now I feel more like 45 than 67.

"I'm never troubled wth my stomach, liver and bowels anymore and the dizzy spells and nervousness have vanished. A thousand dollars wouldn't pay me to go back to the same condition I was in before taking Dreco."

There would be less sickness and fewer hospitals in the country today if people would only heed the early warnings sent out by Nature that something is wrong. Dizziness, gas on the stomach, headaches, painful joints, poor digestion, belching, nervousness are sure signs of coming illness.

Mr. O'Conner, the well-known Expert from the Dreco Laboratories now at Mathews' Medicine Store is telling scores of people every day how to take Dreco for best results. Go to see him. His advice is free.

Just Like a Man

"My husband suffered for several years with stomach trouble. He often had colic attacks that put him to bed. But a man can't stand the pains that a woman can. He thought he was going to die and the doctors didn't seem to help him any. Like a drowning man grasping for a straw he tried MAYR'S, which a nurse told us about, and now he is entirely well and eats anything." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway and Druggists Everywhere.

Another City Bans Fireworks

Youngstown today is added to the list of cities that believe in a "safe and sane Fourth."

The acting mayor of the Mahoning county metropolis has banned the sale and discharge of pyrotechnics this year. Most communities of any size have tabooed the dangerous explosives.

In East Liverpool, where councilmen back-pedalled and repealed a "safe and sane" ordinance, which has been referred to Mayor Benedum for approval or rejection, some parents scornfully say, "Aw, what's the harm in a few firecrackers? You ought to see the stuff I used to set off when I was a kid." Or "What's the Fourth without fireworks." They have forgotten why the prohibitory legislation was adopted.

Deaths and injuries became so numerous a few years ago that a toll of more than a thousand children dead and many more thousands blinded or otherwise injured was taken for granted as a necessary outcome of the holiday. When things got to that pass, enlightened communities decided to put an end to this slaughter of children. The day, in these places, has ceased to be one of horror, and become what it should be, a pleasant day of celebration.

Nor need the most enjoyable fireworks be lacking. The night fireworks, in the hands of a committee of adults who are careful and wise with them, may still give pleasure to everybody for miles around.

Skilled Labor Temperate

Writing about liquor conditions in Quebec, which has a moderate degree of prohibition, Norman Hapgood says there are taverns left, and men do get drunk in them. But thereby hangs an interesting fact, applying to the whole of our modern industrial civilization.

The men he sees coming out of those taverns drunk, says Hapgood, are not skilled workmen. "They drink seldom, and almost never to excess." Those who get drunk are "a few sailors, and the lowest class of labor."

Thus in Quebec, as in the United States, skilled labor is characterized by temperance.

Modern industry is responsible for that, he concludes. Temperance naturally come with high-powered machinery and the need of accurate, responsible manual work. Just as, according to Henry Ford, "the motor and drink don't mix," so drink and engineering don't mix, nor drink and pottery-making, nor drink and carpentry, nor drink and bricklaying, nor drink and plastering, nor drink and trip-hammers.

Thus, for economic reasons, quite aside from moral reasons, there is every reason why this should be a sober age. The whole force of our modern industrial life is working against alcohol, because alcohol is the enemy of skilled industry, and the intelligent workman would rather ride forward on a wave of industrial opportunity that sacrifice his future to booze.

Sport Clothes In France

With women going in for sports like men, French sportswomen spring a surprise in the matter of costume. They do not agree that athletics will justify costumes approaching nakedness.

The Federation of French Sporting Women rules that any member will be suspended from membership if she wears abbreviated running trunks, skin-tight swimming suits or sleeveless tennis dresses. Trunks must reach below the knee, sleeves must cover eno-fourth of the arm and bathing suits must be designed for bathing rather than for exploiting the feminine figure.

Coming from a nation supposed to be rather daring in clothes and loose in morals, this may arouse reflection in the minds of a good many American women.

D'Annunzio Seeing Things

Gabriele D'Annunzio, the famous Italian poet who rampaged up and down, by air, land and water, during the war, has been going from one fervor to another ever since. His latest adventure is a visitation from the great Hungarian composer, Franz Liszt, who died 50 years ago.

The poet had just had a new piano installed in his villa at Gordone. He writes to the piano manufacturers telling the story of the instrument's dedication. The first evening it began, all of itself, to vibrate with rare harmonies.

"This is a place of mysteries and prodigies," he says. "Not without trembling I perceived that the shadow of Liszt, who was once a guest here, had entered the instrument and was producing with long, immaterial fingers, a beautiful rhythmic tempest."

Mad, or merely imaginative? Probably both. This is no madder than scattering war sonnets over Italy from an airplane, or leading Italy in a wild and costly crusade for the "redemption" of worthless territory, or seizing and holding Fiume in defiance of his own government, or a hundred other mad escapades, poetic, erotic and patriotic. The wonder is that a great nation has so long taken this crazy genius seriously.

The latest bathtub incident is shocking, but not scandalous. A girl in Akron was shocked to death trying to use an electric curling iron while in a tubful of water. Mixing water and electricity is worse than mixing drinks.

Indian women seem to be arriving socially. Two oil heiresses of the Osage tribe have been killed for their money.

Pathetic Figures— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 30.—There are thin rumors that most of the young literary lions of Gotham who were suddenly plucked at stupendous salaries to illuminate the Hollywood movie heavens soared briefly and landed with the customary dull, sickening thud.

Many who trekked westward all merry and bright expecting to be darlings of the hour, found themselves cooling their heels in ante-rooms in the manner of the movie extras. Los Angeles had evidently grown too big to turn out en masse at the depot meeting visitors.

There seemed to be no confusion in the minds of the movie magnates as to who was more important—the star, director or authkor. The latter invariably ran third. Quite a number had been impressed by stories of grandeur among the literati.

They expected to gaze each morning at the snow-fringed Sierras through the French windows of a Spanish castle and be whisked to the studio in a scarlet-eyed dragon of a car. They would receive the press after luncheon in a reigning star's patio. Once newspaper boys themselves, you know!

This picture was a little overdrawn. One young man, tailored to a Fifth Avenue gloss, in a two days search could not find anyone who knew he had been hired, and he was three days more reaching the star who had made the arrangement. He waited ten more days and came home.

Most of them discovered the heavy enthusiasm displayed over New York luncheon tables had cooled in transit. "O, yet, we did have a talk in New York. Glad you are here. See Blinks, the director, but he is busy on a set for a few days. Make yourself comfortable. Here's a cigar!"

The travelers learned what old movie heads have long known. The director makes the picture. A star is quite important, but the author comparatively is not. Even Michael Arlen learned that. The author may sell his wares at a high figure, but in the actual making of a picture he is regarded as a bit of nuisance.

Cocktail shakers are now offered with music box attachments. When lifted they grind out "How Dry I Am!"

Gaudy cocktail shakers were almost unknown until recently. They were purchased in the basement of department stores. Today they are exhibited in the windows of the most expensive jewelers. Some of them are priced as high as $400, and with a set of glasses and tray reach a thousand dollars.

All of these drinking fripperies might indicate Manhattan is concerned chiefly in intoxication, yet the biggest scandal of the year concerned watered milk.

For several months my contacts with New York have been intermittent. Somehow, one of the biggest impressions is a falling off in those wild parties we used to hear about in apartments. The town may be drinking more, but it is showing it less.

Conrad Berkovici, the writer, and Charlie Chaplin are warm friends. On a recent visit to New York Conrad was visiting the movie star in his hotel apartment, along with another gentleman. A social climber dropped in and invited Chaplin to dinner on a certain evening. He also invited the other gentleman, but neglected Berkovici. Both accepted before the slight to the writer took place, but the night of the dinner Chaplin phoned Berkovici to join him at a little cafe on Second avenue, and while a large gathering waited for Chaplin, he and his friend dined. Chaplin never referred to the incident.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Getting Out The Vote.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 30. — Under the leadership of John Hays Hammond, who has accepted the chairmanship of the department of political education of the National Civic Federation, an early start is being made with a campaign to get voters to the polls at the November elections, and at the intervening primaries. While there was a "get-out-the-vote" campaign in 1924, in which many organizations took part, and there have been local efforts along this line in many places in previous years, the energy and organizing ability of Mr. Hammond, and the type of citizens making up the committee working with him, give a basis for hope that the 1926 effort will produce something better than the 51 per cent vote scored two years ago, and the 48 per cent vote recorded in 1920.

Mr. Hammond has the advantage of attacking the problem of non-voting from an independent view-point. He has never been a politician nor an office holder but he has been enormously successful as a business organizer. While he has lived in Washington in recent years, and acted occasionally as a member of special commissions such as that which surveyed the coal industry, his concern with voting is much deeper than that of the office seeker. He wants Americans to vote because by no other method can self government be maintained.

Having not only travelled, but transacted business on a large scale in many parts of the world, Mr. Hammond knows a great deal about governments and how they affect the life of peoples. His concern for his own country, when he sees half of the people taking no part in their Government, and many of this half the best educated people, is based on facts which he knows from experience. He knows Russia and the Russian people, and appreciates that the country has practically every natural advantage of the United States, every natural resource of materials, soil, and climate. He knows that the Russian people have great talents, ruggedness, strength, and genius. And he observes all of this, the elements of a great and happy nation, in sad straits because Russia has not yet been able to evolve a government under which people can work and live successfully and happily.

He has studied China and her people, and observes one of the most populous and thrifty races on the earth on the verge of actual starvation because no system of government is in operation capable of allowing life to go forward on any sane basis. He has noted the struggle of Europe to recover from war and establish peace, and has viewed the aspirations of powerful and noble peoples shattered by the inability of governments to function effectively. Observing that the Republic of the United States is one of the few successful large governments in the world today, he is concerned about keeping it so.

A Model Public Servant

In leading a national campaign for political education, Mr. Hammond is therefore probably as free from party prejudice or narrow vision as a man well can be. He is more than seventy years old, comfortably equipped with worldly goods, and could spend his time playing golf if he preferred. That he busies himself tirelessly at public service indicates how serious he believes the situation of our country to be, with government largely in the hands of selfish minorities and organized cliques because the busy mass of the population is willing to let some one else attend to its politics.

The National Civic Federation is seeking to drive this fact home throughout the country, as it organizes local committees and urges a larger measure of voting—of well-informed voting. It tells the people of New York that their recent milk graft scandals are their own fault. They let other folks do their voting and choose their officials. It tells the people of Chicago that gunmen, freed by easy parole boards, bailed by easy judges, protected by easy law enforcement officials, are the fault of the people who do not vote.

It tells the people of Pennsylvania that the new primary election scandals, revealing millions of dollars spent to control the choices for Senator and Governor, are solely possible because the people of the State allow their politics to be run by organized bosses, big and little, who swing the uninformed voters by expensive methods. The well informed could control any primary if they would vote, and their votes could not be controlled by any number of millions of dollars.

Voting statistics for the whole nation covering the 1920 and 1924 presidential elections show that 49 and 51 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots in those years. During the interval, in 1922, when every Representative and one-third of the Senators and many Governors were elected, as will be the case this year, the vote was smaller. The effort to increase the vote in 1924, by many different societies and organizations, resulted in 31 states registering a larger vote than in 1920, but this was largely offset by 17 states which had fewer voters in 1924 than four years earlier.

The States where voting declined were Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiona, Maine, Maryland, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia.

Not a Party Issue.

These were fairly well divided between Republican and Democratic strongholds, and prove that negligence about the affairs of government is no party matter. While both parties number millions of so-called supporters who do not bother to vote, and the independent voters complain somewhat but vote little, there are well organized movements going on which aim to destroy the whole scheme of American Government, and establish government by bullets instead of ballots. The constant failure of the voters to attend to the business of self government gives encouragement to every plan for the overthrow of government by force.

A recent survey revealed more than one thousand publications in the United States devoted to doctrines of revolution and the destruction of orderly government. Speakers and organizers for these movements remain alertly on the job. They express no hope of ever mustering a majority of the country by vote, but they confi-

ABSOLUTELY UNFITTED FOR THE ROLE.

A few months before his death Gen. Basil Duke of Kentucky, who commanded Morgan's Cavalry after the killing of his brother-in-law, Gen. John Morgan, told this tale at a Confederate reunion in his home city of Louisville:

He said that during one of the Tennessee campaigns Morgan's men surprised and routed a regiment of Federal troopers. In the midst of the retreat one of the enemy, who was mounted upon a big bay horse, suddenly turned and charged the victorious Confederates full-tilt, waving his arm and shrieking like mad as he bore down upon them alone. Respecting such marvelous courage, the Confederates forbode shooting at the approaching foe, but when he was right upon them they saw there was a different reason for his foolhardiness.

He was a green recruit. His horse had run away with him—the bit had broken, and white as a sheet and scared stiff, the luckless youth was being propelled straight at the whooping Kentuckians, begging for mercy as he came.

Jeff Sterritt, a noted wit of the command, stopped the horse and made a willing prisoner of the rider. Sterritt, who had not washed or shaved for days and was a ferocious looking person, pulled out a big pistol and wagged its muzzle in the terrified Federal's face.

"I don't know whether to kill you right now," he said, "or wait until the fight is over!"

"Mister," begged the quivering captive, "as a favor to me, please don't do it at all! I'm a dissipated character—and I ain't prepared to die!"

DETRICK WINS COACHING JOB

Will Take Charge of Ohio Wesleyan Cage Squad.

Raymond O. Detrick, former head basketball coach at Mount Union college, the man who directed the destinies of two royal purple quintets which captured Ohio Conference basketball laurels during the seasons of 1923-24 and 1924-25, has been appointed head basketball coach at Ohio Wesleyan university, according to announcement by officials of the Delaware institution.

Detrick, a Wittenberg product, took his first coaching assignment at Wellsville high school following his graduation, giving the Orange and Black some of its best athletic teams over a long period of years.

From Wellsville he went to Mount Union where he coached for two years. It will be remembered that Detrick resigned as cage mentor there after having aroused the ire of Mount executive heads when he is alleged to have played independent basketball after having been warned against such practice.

Detrick will serve as assistant football and baseball coach also at the Delaware school, according to B. F. Van Alstyne.

The first Pennsylvania railroad program was on the air last night. Music for the entire series of entertainments will be supplied by professional artists of national reputation. From time to time talented employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad will supplement the work of the professionals. Each program will be presented in a railroad atmosphere, created by the brief travelogue features which will be interspersed between the musical numbers. Each night's program will be based on a journey over some particular portion of the Pennsylvania Railroad or on one of its famous trains. Some of the journeys, instead of being those of passengers, will cover the movement of a freight shipment on one of the Pennsylvania's scheduled freight trains which, like the fast passenger limiteds, have their own individual names. SIMPLE HINT for the Woman who wishes to reduce

New York—There is on the market a good formula called SAN-GRI-NA, which is considered harmless and efficacious. Some people have been prejudiced about taking anything internal to reduce, but actual results from SAN-GRI-NA have caused even physicians to recommend it—amongst many who have reduced Miss C., a graduate nurse from Brooklyn, states that she lost a total of 29 pounds with SAN-GRI-NA, feels better—can work, think and remember better than she has done for years.

Furthermore for those who wish to have their physician investigate it the Company which puts out SAN-GRI-NA offers to send any physician a free package for his approval.

SAN-GRI-NA is not sold under false promises of over night reduction—Cases of reduction are seldom more than 2 to 4 lbs. a week—SAN-GRI-NA is not expensive and is considered a splendid way to reduce at a price within the reach of all.

Sold at any good drug or dept. store with the understanding that if the patient does not reduce after giving the treatment a fair trial the money will be refunded.

On Sale at Hodson's, Anderson's, W. & W. Pharmacy or Mathews Medicine Store.

You may have a few thousand or many thousand miles left in your tires. But whatever the amount is you will not lose it, because we will make you an allowance for it when you trade in for Generals.

As soon as your new Generals have gone just as far as you expected your previous tires to run, then the extra mileage that is built into every General, over and beyond what you expect from ordinary tires, will begin to count.

And that is when you start collecting the free mileage. It is the reason you hear so many General users say, "It's the second 10,000 miles that makes the big hit." And on top of the extra mileage, you get the special advantages of General's low-pressure comfort, car protection, and motor power and gasoline saving—things that will make you another one of General's highly satisfied, enthusiastic boosters.

Gilliland-Wolfe Wedding Solemnized In Home of Bride

Miss Maybelle Gilliland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Gilliland of 1852 Erie street, became the bride of Edward B. Wolfe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Wolfe, of 1561 Globe street, at the home of the bride's parents at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. As Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Miss Lillian Miles, the bridal party took their places before an improvised altar of ferns, palms and roses. The ring ceremony was read by Rev. G. C. Westlake, pastor of the Pennsylvania avenue Methodist Episcopal church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Miss Mary E. Wolfe, a sister of the bridegroom, and Dr. Roy O. Gilliland of Massillon, a brother of the bride, served as maid-of-honor and best man, respectively. Rachel Evelyn Ketchum, niece of the bridegroom, as flower girl, wore white georgette and carried an arm bouquet of butterfly roses. Melvin Wright, a nephew of the bride, who served as ring bearer, was dressed in white and carried the ring on a white satin pillow, heart-shaped.

NORTHERN OHIO ENJOYS MILD WEATHER AFTER ONE-DAY HEAT WAVE

Col. Archer's Address

plumbing firm of Zange & Bence. He is making a tour of the country in the interests of the National Trade Extension bureau. He is a world traveler, having spent several years in Europe and Asia, where he made a study of sanitation problems.

At the opening of his address, he said the sanitation systems in use in many of the larger cities of the United States are practically the same as those which were used by the ancients.

"A few years ago I stood in the city of Babylon, which 5,000 years ago boasted a population of several million people," Acher said. "That city had a sewer system equally as good as New York's. Wherever a civilization has lived and prospered it has had sanitation or it could not have become what it is now."

He cited the fact that last year the National Trade Extension bureau established 79 schools in which the plumbing and other building trades were taught. He asserted there is demand for at least 3,500 journeymen plumbers in the United States this year.

"But the plumbing trade is only one of the building crafts which is suffering from the lack of workers," he said. According to statistics, Col. Archer declared, but 375 men learned the plastering trade last year.

"If this keeps up plasterers will be placed in museums where an admission will be charged to see them. Similar shortages have been reported in the bricklaying, carpenter, electrician and other building crafts throughout the country.

Chance for Over-privileged Boy.

"We often hear the statement that all men are created free and equal," he said. "I will grant that all men are created free but I deny that all are created equal. In Europe the day that a boy is born he is dedicated to the trade, business or profession of his father. There are stores in London where the names above the doors look as though they have not been changed for a thousand years. Just as soon as the father dies his sons take over the business and so on.

"Some years ago, every president of the United States used to point to the log hut or cabin where he was born. With our big institutions and hospitals today what chance has a man to become president? When he matures he can point to a hospital and say it was there where he first saw the light of day.

"The American boy today is being taught that there is something wrong with the man who works with his hands with the result that the building trades are suffering. Can you think of anything bigger for a man to accomplish than to erect a gigantic bridge across the river, to build the big ocean liners and other similar feats?

"Not many mothers would take pride to see her daughter come walking home in the evening with the man in overalls. Yet that is the way that Henry Ford, Charles Schwab and other present day captains of industry obtained their start. I am pleading to you for an equal chance for this over-privileged boy.

"The over-privilegede boy is forgetting how to walk. He rides to school in an automobile. Boys used to run their mother's errands, but in this day of inventions the telephones are used for that work.

"I appeal to you fathers to make companions of your boys and of your neighbor's boy. Get out in the alley and play ball with them—forget chasing the ball around the golf links. In this way you Rotarians will be able to 'profit most by serving best.'"

Mercury Reaches 92-degree Mark in East Liverpool While Thousands Swelter in Other Cities.

MOTHS RIDE ON LAKE BREEZES

Hot Spell Broken in Sandusky by Severe Electrical and Wind Storm of Almost Tornado Proportions.

CLEVELAND, June 30.—Northern Ohio was enjoying mild weather today as the result of cooling lake breezes which followed yesterday's heat spell. The sun, however, was scheduled to put in some more good licks in the central part of the state and along the Kentucky border, according to the weatherman.

The mercury reached almost 90 degrees in the shade here late yesterday, setting a high mark for the year. Relief was brought thousands of sweltering Clevelanders by a brisk thunder shower accompanied by a high wind that did come damage to trees and outbuildings.

The lake winds which set in last night blew myriads of large moths, known as "Canadian soldiers," into the city. This morning the walls of downtown buildings, sidewalks and trees were covered with the insects.

Tiffin Has Highest Temperature.

"Yesterday's heat wave was too short lived in the northern part of the state to do much damage," the weatherman said today. "The warm weather was followed too quickly by showers and cool winds."

Tiffin, Ohio, reported the highest temperature in the state with a mark of 94; East Liverpool had 92; Marion, Newark and Zanesville had 90; Dayton 89½; Columbus, Cincinnati, Marietta and Lima 89, and Akron 84.

SANDUSKY, June 30.—The hot spell was broken here by a severe electrical storm accompanied by winds of almost tornado proportions which caused much damage to small buildings, telephone poles and trees. Cherry orchards south of here were hard hit and many bushels of ripening fruit were ruined.

MARIETTA, June 30.—During the night thunder showers cooled the atmosphere here after a maximum temperature yesterday of 89 degrees.

Mercury Soars in Dayton.

DAYTON, June 30.—This city's first real heat wave of the year started yesterday when the mercury climbed to 89½ for the day, establishing a record for the year.

A rainstorm last night, notwithstanding its short duration, cooled the air and made sleeping more comfortable.

The weatherman promises continued warm today and suggested that the "wave might continue during the rest of the week.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

Under the respective leadership of American Smelting and United Cigar Stores, the copper and tobacco stocks enjoyed a strong and active market; Independent Steel stocks and public utilities advanced into slightly higher price ground in active trading.

Rails and oils were steady, but featureless, with dividend stocks like Atchison and New York Central in the former, and Shell Union and Marland in the latter receiving the most notice. Rubber and tire stocks were again irregular.

$400,000 FIRE IN COLUMBUS

Two Lumber Yards and Warehouse Damaged.

COLUMBUS, June 30. — Lightning was believed responsible today for fire which caused a loss exceeding $250,000 to properties here of the Sowers-Benhow Lumber company, the Scioto Lumber and Supply company and the I. H. Schlezinger Junk company warehouse alongside the Central railroad yards.

More than 15,000 persons watched the spectacular blaze, lasting more than six hours, which originated in the Sowers-Benhow lumber yard. More than 1,000,000 feet of lumber were destroyed. A 500-gallon tank of gasoline was destroyed. A number of firemen were severely burned and overcome by heat and smoke.

Soldiers from Fort Hayes, the local United States army barracks, aided the city firemen in fighting the flames. Practically all of the city's fire-fighting apparatus was used in response to three alarms. Boy Scouts afforded the firefighters relief from the terrific heat by furnishing them with milk and water.

Practically all loss is covered by insurance, it was stated.

Firemen were kept at the scene of the fire all forenoon playing water upon the smouldering debris.

The fire was discovered shortly before midnight, a few minutes after persons in the vicinity of the lumber yard had noted a long flash of lightning, followed by a deafening clap of thunder.

Many of the day firemen were called from their beds to aid the members of the night shift in fighting the fire.

Injured firemen include:

Fireman Shipley, No. 16 company, burned about hands and arms, and Fireman Zoyer, No. 1 truck company, arms and elbows burned.

Properties of the two lumber companies were practically wiped out. The Schlesinger company sustained a loss estimated at not less than $50,000.

Common Pleas Judge Daniel H. Sowers is president of the Sowers-Benbow company.

A couple of nearby residences were destroyed, with a total loss estimated at $15,000. Loss sustained by the Sowers - Benbow company includes 250,000 feet of high grade finished lumber.

While four pump companies continued to battle the flames during the forenoon, a check-up revealed five firemen injured.

The car alighted on the railroad tracks of the Wheeling branch of the Panhandle railroad, but the three passengers were thrown from the machine before the drop.

The accident occurred when one of the rear tires on the coupe blew out while the car was traveling at a high rate of speed. The three victims were removed to the Ohio Valley hospital at Steubenville.

BIG RAILROADS PLAN TO MERGE VARIOUS LINES

Convinced Federal Board Has Abandoned Major Group Move.

SCHEME SCRAPPED

L. F. Loree, Delaware and Hudson Chief, Visits Capital.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The big railroad executives of the country, apparently convinced that the interstate commerce commission has abandoned hope of consolidating the railroads into 19 major groups, as outlined in the transportation act of 1920, are now centering their plans on merging various lines to meet their own individual requirements.

The fact that the commission has virtually scrapped its tentative consolidation plan was emphasized today after L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson, had spent a day with members of the interstate commerce commission and several members of the senate and house interested in railroad legislation.

Loree's mission was to explain his project of merging the Kansas City Southern, of which he is chairman of the board, with the St. Louis Southwestern and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroads. The Loree application is expected to be filed with the commission some time this week.

On its heels will come the renewed Van Sweringen application to merge the Chesapeake and Ohio, Hocking Valley, Pere Marquette, Erie and Nickel Plate, followed by the plan of the Rock Island system to absorb the St. Louis-San Francisco lines.

Wets Have Spent $1,100,000 Against National Dry Law

WASHINGTON, June 30. — In its war against the national dry law and its drive for the election of wet congress, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment has spent $1,100,000 in the last six years, Captain William H. Stayton, its head, testified today before the senate slush fund committee at the opening of its wet inquiry.

The association spent an average of about $160,000 in the five years preceding 1925, but its expenditures last year totalled $300,000, Stayton said.

In the present year, he declared, the organization probably would have a total fund of $600,000 to spend on the wet cause.

Disabled War Vet Charged With Murder of Daughter

Seattle Man Demands Early Trial When Accused of Death of Girl Whose Body is Found on Shore of Lake.

SEATTLE, June 30.—An early trial will be demanded by Wallace C. "Bob" Gaines, disabled war veteran, charged with the murder of his beautiful 22-year-old daughter, Sylvia Gaines, whose body was found on the shore of Green Lake, June 17.

Counsel for the accused father in attendance at the coroner's inquest at which Gaines, himself, had testified and which was dramatically halted as the arrest of Gaines was ordered, announced that they were confident their client could clear himself.

Interest hinged today in a secret report of Luke May, famous criminologist. When all other efforts failed May was called into the case. He started a secret probe in which ashes were dug up back of the Gaines home, clothing taken from the home was examined and it is understood that it was upon his report that the arrest was ordered.

The pretty Smith college graduate, whose slaying was declared by police to have been one of the most brutal crimes in the history of Seattle, was last seen alive on the night of June 16.

The following day her body, almost entirely disrobed, was found on the shores of the lake.

After a number of suspects had been arrested and released, the investigation suddenly turned toward the girl's father, Wallace "Bob" Gaines. A preliminary examination by members of the prosecuting attorney's office exonerated him of the crime.

Because of the prominence of the principals and the nature of the crime the case caused the greatest interest here and finally public opinion became so heated that Coroner Corson decided to hold an inquest.

After numerous witnesses had been examined, Gaines himself was called to the stand.

Gaines related his movements on the night of the murder with remarkable composure and the inquest began to show signs of coming to a close with nothing having been accomplished. Then the investigation rushed forward to a startling climax. Prosecutor Colvin had finally been convinced there was cause for action and the arrest of Gaines followed.

Sylvia Gaines came here from the east last September. Her mother lives at Lynnfield, Mass.

BETTER JAMS AND JELLIES

At Lower Cost

The modern, short-boil methkod of making jams and jellies with Certo delights women everywhere because it is so simple, so sure, so practical and so improves the color and flavor of their jams and jellies.

With Certo your fruit jells perfectly every time, with only one or two minutes' boiling. This saves the bright color and delicately luscious flavor of your fresh fruit and gives you a larger amount of jam or jelly from your fruit because you save all the juice which used to boil away.

Women who have figured the cost both ways find their cost per glass two or three cents less when they use Certo.

Certo is a pure fruit product—the jellying substance of fruit refined and bottled. A book of simple, tested recipes comes with each bottle. Your grocer carries Certo, or you can send 10c (for postage) and get a trial half-size bottle which will make from 6 to 10 glasses of jam or jelly, depending upon the recipe used. Illinois American Legion Hits Record In Member Drive

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. — The American Legion in Illinois has smashed its records for the years 1922, 1923, 1924 and 1925. To date this year 61,300 members have been enrolled.

Illinois, according to state officers, is the first large department to pass its 1925 enrollment and has just won a tri-state contest with New York and Pennsylvania, for which a cup will be awarded at the national convention in Philadelphia next October.

Eyelashes Now Curved.

By the use of a tiny metal device which when heated and clamped over them and left for a few moments, eyelashes now may be "curled," and the vogue is being used by women of the stage and screen to get a "turned up" effect on them. The lashes are not in reality curled but are made to turn up noticeably.

Laughlin Regains League Lead By Trimming Chester, 8 to 7

Darkness Ends Clash In Fifth After Spurt By Riley Nine Fails

Battle Draws Out Greatest Crowd of Season; Fans Stick to Seats Until Street Lights go on and Losers' Last Hope Fades; Digman Effective Until Fifth.

WEST VIRGINIA clubs of the City Industrial league, Laughlin and Chester clashed on the latter's field last evening with the top rung of the organization race as the grand prize in the background of the contest. Following a terrific battle, witnessed by one of the largest throngs of the season, the potters finally won in the semi-darkness of the fifth inning, while the losers who had the trying and winning runs on the bases after ten men had batted in that torrid period, sent over five tallies and all but overcame the big lead that had been maintained against them. The score at the conclusion of hostilities was 8 to 7.

As a result Chester dropped from first to second place in the club standing while Laughlin took for the moment the coveted place at the head of the six-team procession.

Seemingly inspired after their defeat of Monday night by the K. T. K. team at Columbian park by the score of 1 to 0 by the return to the fold of one of their strongest hitters last year—Ross Tisher, who after witnessing the initial game of the 1926 season at Newell, W. Va., hied himself to the fishing pools of Colorado so as to be in condition for the second section of the year's play the club rallied around Pitcher Digman and after being scored against twice in the first inning came back, tied the count and then forged to the front from which they were not displaced despite the powerful threat and effort of the Chester aggregation in the final period of batting.

Tisher Joins Mates.

Tisher reached East Liverpool about 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and the first thing he did after getting into his Northside home was to procure a copy of the Evening Review and find out for the first time since early May what had been happening to his old baseball club. He was startled to note that his mates were to stand Chester in a critical contest for the top of the heap in a few hours. He found his uniform, jumped into it, drove to Chester and there greeted Manager McCoy and the others of the club on the Laughlin bench. There was a reunion with plenty of enthusiasm and the men, exhilerated, went out to win.

Tisher, not in form, did not get into the lineup, but engaged in fielding practice out in his old bailiwick in right field. But he sat throughout on the bench and upon the base lines as coach and assisted in cheering on the players in the masterful game which they exhibited throughout the nerve racking contest.

Because of time out in the second inning to discuss a play at first base the game was prolonged until the lights were lighted on Chester streets as the final batting was being done. At the time Finley, hitting safely, and Aufterheide, walking, were at third and second respectively following a sacrifice by Babb. Then W. Watson, the brilliant second sacker of the Laughlin club, hit one to Wilde which was too hot for him to handle. The ball bounded from his hands into the newly constructed wire screen bask of first base and rebounded into his hands, as he essayed to recover it. He was thus enabled to touch the bag before the on-coming Watson. Finley scored on the play. Laughlin argued that Watson was safe and should be allowed to go to second on the play. In the end after the umpires had consulted with each other and the players of both clubs Watson was permitted his base only. Then Watson stole second and on W. McMath's overthrow to that station Aufterheide counted making the score 2 to 2.

Chester was quickly blanked by the Laughlinites. Aufterheide, in right, rushing into the crowd in that section and taking down the fly of P. Cebula. It was a fine catch.

Then Laughlin rushed in and scored three more runs as eight men batted. Crawford flew to Shaw in that interim. Parsons reached second as Green booted his drive and threw high to first. Herbert walked, Finley singled and Parsons counted, Herbert going to third. On a zigzagging attempt to get Finley between first and second Herbert stole home, Finley going to third and scoring as Babb beat out a bunt after Audterheide had walked. The latter reached second on the play and stole third as W. Watson struck out. Hunselman then fanned.

Laughlin Scores in Fifth.

Blanked in the fourth, Laughlin, with nine men hitting, scored three more in the fifth. After L. McMath had thrown out Herbert at first, Finley beat out a slow drive to short. On P. Cebula's throw Wilde muffed and the runner went to second. Aufterheide missed the third strike, which W. McMath dropped, both runners being safe as the backstop tried to get Finley at third. Babb fanned. W. Watson was hit, clogging the bases. Reese ran for Watson. Hunselman walked, forcing in Finley. Digman singled, the ball hitting Umpire Hester in right, scoring Aufterheide. Crawford beat out an infield blow as Reese tore into the plate. W. McMath dropped the ball on M. Cebula's assist and the substitute runner also counted.

Stage Desperate Drive.

With the score 8 to 2 against them Chester came to bat in the final half of the fifth. Evans was up, but Potts was sent in to bat for him. He singled to left. C. Marshall, always bad in a pinch, followed instead of W. McMath, and was hit in the arm by Digman. Reese, running for Potts, went to second. M. Cebula drove a safe liner to left and Reese scored, making the count 8 to 3. L. McMath hit to W. Watson, who assisted to Finley, forcing M. Cebula at second as C. Marshall held up at third. G. Cebula, batting for Shaw, fanned. P. Cebula sent a long drive to deep middle. Crawford tried for it and barely touched the ball as he collided with a woman spectator of those seated under the cherry trees. On the play C. Marshall and L. McMath crossed the plate and P. Cebula reached third, the score being 8 to 5.

Green drove to W. Watson, who booted the blow and P. Cebula finished, making the figures 8 to 6.

Wilde, next up, doubled to middle, sending Green in with what became Chester's final tally and making the count 8 to 7.

Suder Supplants Digman.

On the throw to the plate the ball went into the crowd and Wilde, apparently caught at second, was declared safe as a result. He later stole third. F. Marshall was sent in to bat for Wyant and drew a walk off Suder, who had just supplanted Digman on the hilltop. He purloined second. The tying and winning run were on the bases as P. Bennett, swatting in the place where Evans and Potts had previously bingled, faced Suder. He swung and missed three strikes.

Though he fanned eight men, M. Cebula had a streak of wildness during the contest in which he walked two and hit two men. All of these were costly. He permitted eight hits, all singles, one being so by striking Umpire Hester. At the bat, however, he came through and drove in the first of the five runs which Chester made in the fateful fifth inning.

Digman was effective throughout the contest until the last period of Chester batting when darkness made it impossible to know accurately what one was doing. He held the heavy hitting Chester players to six hits before he gave way to Suder who pitched to two men to conclude the contest.

The third out had seemingly been made on Wilde at second base at that juncture, but because the ball had been thrown into the crowd he was ruled safe and though the fans, thinking the game over, thronged the field, they good naturedly resumed their places and stood up amid great excitement as Suder retired P. Bennett after walking F. Marshall, both functioning in the role of pinch hitters.

Draws on Reserves.

Manager Riley drew on his reserves in an emphatic way in that interim of play and all but got the needed runs to win the contest.

W. Watson, hit by M. Cebula in the side in fifth inning, was forced to permit Reese to run for him. The lad, previously having sprained a ligament, suffered acutely for a while and was examined by Dr. Campbell, who found that no ribs had been broken. The lad, despite this handicap, gamely went to his place in the second station for the final half of the fifth. Under the circumstances his boot of Greene's blow was quite excusable.

Hunselman, as he has been doing lately, caught a great game; Babb, batting at a .500 clip for the day, played sensationally on first base. His keeping his foot on the bag after Finley had thrown wildly to him on Wyant's rap in the fourth, was a great piece of work. He fell headlong but took the fall rather than yield his advantage with the bag and the runner was out. Finley had a perfect day at the bat with three swats in as many times up. Parsons scored once and had a safe drive besides contributing two fine catches.

Mewha Brothers Will Pilot Cars In Lisbon Event

Former Chester Boys Among Entries for Speed Awards.

WILLIAM and Harry Mewha, former Chester boys who now claim Wellsburg as their home, have entered fast cars in the 50-mile speed event scheduled for the Lisbon fairgrounds on Monday, July 5. The race is attracting entries from a large number of noted dirt track pilots of the tri-state district and the former Chester lads are expected to draw their share of attention.

Because dirt track racing offers more thrills per mile and minute, scores of sportsmen are taking up this fascinating form of sport.

One of the most daring of these drivers is Jack Martin of Dennison who will pilot his Princess Pat Special at Lisbon. Martin has the reputation of providing fans with more thrills than any other driver on Tri-State tracks. He is a fearless racer.

Among the entries for the Lisbon event are included Joe Grant, with a Roof Special; "Speed" Harris, with a Jordan Special; Bud Hinkley, Roof Special; Kenneth Green, Rajo Special; George Decker, Chevrolet Special; J. Jones, Hudson Special.

William Mewha will drive a Roof Special and his brother, Harry, will ride in a Haynes Special.

Risko Made 8 to 5 Favorite to Beat Ex-Crown Holder

Backers of Cleveland Pug, However, Find Cash Scarce.

NEW YORK, June 30. — Although Johnny Risko, Cleveland scrapper, has been made an 8-5 favorite to defeat Mike McTigue, in their 10-round shindy in the garden tomorrow night, there is little or no McTigue money in sight. The Risko backers searched all over the roarin' Forties yesterday to lay their sugar, but found it a waste of time.

The biggest betting attraction of the show is the first ten rounder, between Johnny Filucci and Jackie Snyder. Snyder ruled a 1 to 11 favorite, with wagers of all sizes being made.

CINCINNATI CITY GOLF PLAY OPENS

CINCINNATI, June 30.—Playing a consistent game, with grim determination, Harold Leblond, Cincinnati Country club star, today stood winner of medalist honors in the greater city golf tournament, leading the first flight contenders with 156 for the qualifying 36 holes. He scored a 76 Tuesday, while his Monday card was 80. He drew one of the first games in the match play.

Extremely fast greens the first day, slowed down Tuesday with water, caused the high score of 163 to qualify. Three flights teed off this afternoon for the actual tourney play.

Faltering Pirates to Sign Joe Bush, Nat Castoff, Today

PITTSBURGH, June 30.—Joe Bush, American league castoff, is expected to become a member of the Pirate pitching staff today.

Bush, for whom two other major league clubs have been angling, was scheduled to go into conference with Manager McKechnie and Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss sometime during the day and it is expected that terms will be agreed upon at once.

Bush has been keeping in trim since being given his unconditional release by the Washington Senators last week and probably will be ready to go on the mound for the Corsairs before the end of the week.

SKULL PRACTICE

Manager McCarthy, of the Cubs, has inaugurated a "bench" manager to keep the players there from falling asleep. The rules won't allow one on the playing field.

Manager Harris, of the Senators, doesn't need a bench manager to prevent his extra men falling asleep. He needs a doctor in the dugout to keep 'em from dying of old age.

McCarthy has an understanding with his bench manager that the latter will also remain awake.

The Red Sox owners are thinking of hiring half a dozen such managers to scatter through the grandstand—one to a customer.

"Robins Get Bohne," says Brooklyn sport page headline. Those birds don't need bone. What they need is bird seed.

Western Association fans have seen over 300 home runs so far this season—and would trade the whole lot for a dozen of Babe Ruth's selected circuit clouts.

Ruth wraps his up so neatly with his bat that some lucky fan can carry it home.

When you discuss the Babe's homers you always start with 1921—just like Uncle Ed used to date everything from the year of the grasshoppers.

Everytime Ruth socks a home run these days he lays the cornerstone for another cipher in his new contract to be drawn up next winter.

Father-Son Tourney Draws 150 Entries

W. E. Wells and J. M. Wells in Annual Event at Pittsburgh Field Club Tee Off at 1:50.

APPROXIMATELY 150 Tri-State golfers are competing today in the annual father and son tournament at the Pittsburgh Field club, among whom are listed J. M. Wells and his father, W. E. Wells, of Newell.

On account of the unusually large entry list, play began this morning, inaugurated by Hugo Bezdek, director of athletics at Penn State, and his son, Hugo, Jr.

W. E. Wells and the former Ohio amateur champ were slated to tee off at 1:50 p. m., along with C. L. and Charles A. Totten.

Among the entries are: James Francis Burke, founder of the movement, and his son, J. Scott Burke; Augustus K. Oliver and his son, Joseph W. Oliver; James B. Crookston, former western Pennsylvania amateur champion, and James W. Crookston, former state amateur and West Penn title holder; John Graham, winner of the recent Allegheny tournament, and his son, William Graham; Dr. F. H. Darragh, and Harry Darragh, who hails from Beaver Falls; Thomas Semans, and Edwin W. Semans, of Uniontown; Dr. Gourley and Russell Gourley, of Punxsutawney.

Medal Play.

Play consists of 18 holes medal play, Scotch foursome, with the father and son playing alternate strokes. There will be prizes for the low gross and the low net score, and for the pair bagging the most eagles and birdies on the round. At 5 o'clock there will be a long driving contest.

At noon there will be luncheon served which will be followed by a brief business session at which officers will be elected for the ensuing year. In the evening there will be a dinner, followed by a ball, at which the contestants together with their wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts will be guests of the club. This is an innovation, as in former years the affair was confined exclusively to the dads and their sons.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

It will be almost impossible to keep body and club together properly in the forward swing unless the player introduces a slight pause at the top of the back swing. When the player has the habit of jumping forward through the hips to start the down swing he invariably jumps forward with his body a moment before his club has finished going up in the back swing. The club must reverse its direction before it can start downward and that takes just an instant. The momentary pause is required because the reversal of the club's direction cannot be accomplished and balance be maintained at the same time without the slight hesitation. The pause is more to maintain balance than anything else.

Latzo Proves He's Genuine Champ By Stopping Harmon

Coal Miner Hands Foe First K. O. of Career.

NEWARK, N. J., June 30.—Any lingering doubts that Pete Latzo, king of the welterweight division, is a real champion had been dispelled today as a result of Latzo's knockout of Willie Harmon in the fifth round of their fight here last night. Making his first offensive since winning the title from Mickey Walker, the Scranton miner settled the issue with a hard right to the body and two staggering lefts to the jaw when the round was almost ended.

It was the first time in his career that Harmon had been knocked out.

RICHARD DIX IN COMEDY HIT

"Let's Get Married" Coming to Ceramic Theatre.

As Richard Dix romps and battles his way from dilemma to predicament in his new farce comedy, "Let's Get Married," which comes to the Ceramic Thursday, he is accompanied by a bunch of "regular guys" of his own selection.

There is "Gunboat" Smith, an ex-pugilist who has played in many other films with Dix and exchanged blows with him. "Gunboat" is the detective who dogs Dick's devious detours in "Let's Get Married."

Dix has, as his boon companion in the picture, Nat Pendleton, wrestling champion of Europe. He rose to this eminence after winning the intercollegiate title for Columbia University in 1914. Later, he won a place on the Olympic team. Nat's versatility has been displayed before in both histrionic and directorial capacity on the screen.

With Dix and Pendleton, we find Douglas MacPherson, former football star of the Detroit High school, who has the role of Tommy. MacPherson however, modestly disclaims any particular right to fame as a football player; but admits he's pretty good at checkers, and expects someday to take up golf. This is his first picture in several years, having devoted himself recently to the Broadway stage.

Trailing this trio through the thrills, or if you will, reeling through the reels; are an organ grinder and a street sweeper. Both of them are hefty lads who would be handy to have around in an emergency, but neither of them is professionally proficient in the rugged pastimes.

The cast of extras, is also well sprinkled with exponents of agility and prowess. They include Phil Bloom who acquired his cauliflower ears in many a ring battle; and Charlie Young, a vaudeville tumbler whose business it is to get thrown through a window. Sort of a "picking up" business.

Richard's tough gang in "Let's Get Married," is not due entirely to his liking of young fellows who are able to argue and back their arguments; but also to the fact that "Let's Get Married" calls for more robust scrapping than any picture he has made lately. Lois Wilson, who is featured, contributes her part in injecting some feminine beauty to offset all these pugnacious men. Gregory La Cava directed for Paramount.

Ceramic Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Haskin's Letter

dently predict that they will overthrow the Government, because the majority are not interested in the maintenance of a free government.

In launching the 1926 campaign, which is aimed both to get out the vote and to stimulate interest in government, Federal, State and local, the National Civic Federation is enlisting those organizations which it feels can be depended upon to do earnest work in every community, and do it on a non-partisan basis. The American Legion, which by its national constitution bars partisanship from any of its activities, has accepted the invitation to cooperate, and the Boy Scouts have offered their services for work in assisting the local committees. Other organizations will be added in a comprehensive plan designed to carry the message of the citizen's urgent duty to as many people as possible.

The acceptance by Mr. Hammond of leadership in this work has given new courage to many earlier workers who have been somewhat discouraged by the meagre results achieved. The National League of Women Voters disappointed because since women have had the ballot much less than half of them have exercised the duty and privilege of voting, will make a new drive to stimulate the female vote. An effort will be kept up until November to score the greatest Congressional vote ever recorded.

Making Up a Story.

Dr. Worm—Mueller's Book.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co

CONGRESSMEN are going home to rest and learn what their constituents think.

Like husbands going home late, they are thinking up a convincing story.

They have cut more than $350,000,000 off the national tax load. That's good.

Congress collected some of the money that Europe owes up. That's good. It is as well we did not try to collect all. We might not have got anything.

Congress appropriated $150,000,000 to be spent in five years on aviation. That sounds all right, but there isn't any American aviation worth speaking of, and that's bad.

THE Rockefeller Foundation spends money fighting disease, including the worst disease, which is ignorance. At present, seven distinguished men, scientists, professors and philosophers, representing seven European countries, are traveling here as guests of the Rockefeller foundation. One of them, Jacob F. Worm-Mueller, doctor of philosophy, economist and professor of modern history at Oslo, Norway, has written a book that should be translated from Norwegian into English. "Den Okonimiske Krig Efter Napoleon's Krigene." That book, published by Grondahl & Sonnist Oslo, translated into English, would enlighten Americans and particularly the British.

THE British will not like Prof. Worm-Mueller's views, but will be glad to know about them.

It was the development of steam power that rescued Europe and enabled her to pay her debts after Waterloo. Perhaps electric power will now pay for the big war, as steam paid Europe's debt after Napoleon.

Prof. Worm-Mueller believes that Britain's economic situation is most dangerous, more so than after Waterloo, when England had little competition.

Will Ivy Lee kindly have that book translated for the enlightenment of his clients?

VINVENT ASTOR, well-known New Yorker, back from Europe, says: "I didn't go to France because the French are antagonistic to Americans. There is none of that in England.

Mr. Astor is mistaken. The British are more tactful, not less antagonistic, especially when they deal with an American whose letter of credit is deer.

When a man sees another to whom he owes a large sum that he cannot pay, he is not glad to see that creditor. That's how Europe feels toward the United States.

Some sensitive flowers close if you touch them; "glass" snakes, it is said, break in pieces when handled, but the most sensitive, fragile thing is confidence in the capitalist's mind.

On Berlin's stock exchange a violent advance in prices follows the decision not to confiscate property of the former kaiser.

"HELL'S HALF ACRE" HABITUE STILL HELD IN BEAVER JAIL

Acquitted of Murder, But Court Demands Good Behavior.

5-YEAR PLEDGE

Friends Seek Bail for Man Exonerated in Brother's Death.

Willis Miller, acquitted of a murder charge in connection with the fatal shooting of his brother, "Alabama Joe" Miller, reputed king of bootleggers in "Hell's Half Acre," near the state line last September, must post a $5,000 bond as a guarantee "to keep the peace and be of good behavior during a term of five years."

This was the ruling of Judge Frank E. Reader in the Beaver, Pa., common pleas court yesterday afternoon.

Taken Back to Jail.

"This court is satisfied that the testimony would have justified a verdict of guilty of homicide in some degree," said Judge Reader when he fixed the bond. Miller's attorney, Charles E. Stone, Beaver, who defended him during the murder trial, was in the court room when the prisoner was brought from the jail to face the judge.

Miller was sent back to jail until relatives can arrange for his bond. The bond is required under an old English law which the court invoked after the jury had returned a verdict of not guilty in the murder trial.

Miller claimed that he killed his brother in self-defense. He fled into West Virginia after the shooting and finally went to his home at Ironton, where he was arrested and returned to Beaver.

At the time of the shooting Miller is said to have been working for the Crucible Steel company, Midland.

ROY LOEFFLER FALLS FROM HIS TRICYCLE IN MOTOR VEHICLE'S PATH

Adopted Son of C. L. Weaver, Commerce Street, is Victim of Traffic Accident.

ACCIDENT OCCURS NEAR HIS HOME

Youngster, Riding Along Street, Tumbles in Front of Machine and is Crushed to Death.

Roy Loeffler, five years old, adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Weaver, 1733 Commerce street, Wellsville, was instantly killed at noon today when he fell from his tricycle beneath the rear wheel of a loaded coal truck in Commerce street, a short distance from his home.

The child was horribly crushed, the rear wheel of the truck passing directly over his hips.

The vehicle, operated by the firm of Martin and Kaul, of East Liverpool, was driven by Robert Martin, of 513 Eleventh street, Wellsville, and, it is said, had just left the Runyon scales and was proceeding uptown when the accident occurred. Martin has practically been exonerated from blame by city officials.

Foster Mother Prostrated

According to persons who saw the tragedy, Martin, headed toward Seventeenth street, was compelled to pull out in the middle of the street to pass a car parked on the right hand side of Commerce.

The Loeffler boy, riding his tricycle in the middle of the street, passed the front of the truck. Whether he fell from the tricycle or ran into the wheels is not certain. Martin, driving slowly, stopped the vehicle within 15 feet of the boy's body.

The child's father is living in Barnesville, Belmont county. His mother is dead. For a number of years he has been staying with the Weavers. Weaver is a Pennsylvania railroad mail clerk.

The lad's foster-mother was almost prostrated by the shock of the tragedy.

The body was removed to the D. N. McLean funeral home.

Earl Miller, who is alleged to have driven through a red traffic block, also drew a fine of $1 and costs.

FIRE DAMAGES TOURING CAR

Chevrolet tourning car, owned by Herbert Ruhe, was slightly damaged by fire while parked in St. Clair avenue near the Central fire station at 6:30 o'clock last night. The blaze, which originated around the gasoline tank, is believed to have been started when a passerby threw a lighted match into the street. Firemen extinguished the blaze with a chemical tank.

Traffic Law Count Against Bosco is Dismissed by Court

Charge of fast and reckless driving, filed against Sullivan Bosco, Dixonville road florist, following a traffic crash on the River road, Monday night, was dismissed at a hearing before Municipal Judge Hanley yesterday afternoon.

Bosco, on the witness stand in his own defense, charged that Harry Dearth, Broadway, driving a Ford car, had sideswiped his machine, a Hudson, at the sharp bend in the road near Ralston's crossing and that as a result of the accident his automobile had been badly damaged. He denied the allegation of the police that he was speeding.

Bosco was represented by Attorney George E. Davidson. Solicitor Frank Hoover appeared for the prosecution.

CORONER RULES MANSLAUGHTER IN DEATH OF FRANK SPENCE

Van Fossan Verdict Blames "Reckless and Fast Driving."

WITNESSES HEARD

Motorist Pleads Not Guilty, Freed on $2,000 Bond.

Carl M. Turk, 32 years old, of Erie street, was held for action by the Columbiana county grand jury at the September term of court, when he was arraigned before Justic M. K. Zimerman, at Lisbon, yesterday afternoon, upon a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of J. Frank Spence, 68, Center township civil engineer, who was the victim of an automobile accident in front of his Lincoln highway home Monday night.

Victim's Funeral Thursday.

Coroner J. M. Van Fossan, East Palestine, returned a verdict of "manslaughter, due to fast and reckless driving," at an inquest yesterday afternoon. Dr. Van Fossan, accompanied by Sheriff George Wright, visited the scene of the accident and also questioned eye-witnesses to the tragedy.

Driver of the Canton-East Liverpool bus, from whom Mr. Spence had received a package just before meeting his death, told the coroner that Turk was traveling at "an undue rate of speed" just before the victim was struck.

Turk, who has retained Attorney George T. Farrell, Lisbon, to represent him, waived preliminary examination. His bond was fixed at $2,000, which amount he posted following the accident Monday night after the manslaughter charge had been filed by Sheriff Wright at the request of Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes. Transcript in the case, together with the bond, was filed with Clerk of Court Frank Ballentine, today.

Body of the accident victim was taken to his home, three miles south of Lisbon, today. Funeral services will be conducted in the late residence tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be made in the Lisbon cemetery.

MANY DOCTORS AND LAWYERS WOULD MAKE BETTER BRICKLAYERS, KENTUCKIAN TELLS ROTARIANS

Many of our present-day doctors and lawyers would make better bricklayers than professional men, Col. William G. Archer, Owensboro, Ky., sanitation engineer and representative of the National Trade Extension bureau, told 100 persons at a Ladies' night party given by members of the Rotary Club at the Country Club last evening.

He declared that America faces a serious problem through the failure of young men to learn the building trade crafts, pointing out that thousands of men are needed to fill plumbing, bricklaying, plastering and other building jobs.

"We are developing in America today millions of lounge loafers and flappers," he said. "Take the graduating class in your high schools today today and pick out one student who has learned anything during those four years which will assist him in earning a livelihood unless he expects to continue his studies in college. I am not opposed to education but I believe that there are many young men in high school who are missing their calling by not spending those four years in learning a useful trade."

$5,000 BOND IS PRICE OF MILLER'S LIBERTY

Dr. Worm—Mueller's Book.

CONGRESSMEN are going home to rest and learn what their constituents think.

Like husbands going home late, they are thinking up a convincing story.

They have cut more than $350,000,000 off the national tax load. That's good.

Congress collected some of the money that Europe owes up. That's good. It is as well we did not try to collect all. We might not have got anything.

Congress appropriated $150,000,000 to be spent in five years on aviation. That sounds all right, but there isn't any American aviation worth speaking of, and that's bad.

THE Rockefeller Foundation spends money fighting disease, including the worst disease, which is ignorance. At present, seven distinguished men, scientists, professors and philosophers, representing seven European countries, are traveling here as guests of the Rockefeller foundation. One of them, Jacob F. Worm-Mueller, doctor of philosophy, economist and professor of modern history at Oslo, Norway, has written a book that should be translated from Norwegian into English, "Den Okonimiske Etterfiter Napoleon's Krigene." That book, published by Grondahl & Son, should be translated into English. Would enlighten Americans and particularly the British.

THE British will not like Prof. Worm-Mueller's views, but will be glad to know about them.

It was the development of steam power that rescued Europe and enabled her to pay her debts after Waterloo. Perhaps electric power will now pay for the big war, as steam paid Europe's debt after Napoleon.

Prof. Worm-Mueller believes that Britain's economic situation is most dangerous, more so than after Waterloo, when England had little competition.

Will Ivy Lee kindly have that book translated for the enlightenment of his clients?

VINVENT ASTOR, well-known New Yorker, back from Europe, says: "I didn't go to France because the French are antagonistic to Americans. There is none of that in England.

Mr. Astor is mistaken. The British are more tactful, not less antagonistic, especially when they deal with an American whose letter of credit is deep.

When a man sees another to whom he owes a large sum that he cannot pay, he is not glad to see that creditor. That's how Europe feels toward the United States.

Some sensitive flowers close if you touch them; "glass" snakes, it is said, break in pieces when handled, but the most sensitive, fragile thing is confidence in the capitalist's mind.

On Berlin's stock exchange a violent advance in prices follows the decision not to confiscate property of the former kaiser.

"HELL'S HALF ACRE" HABITUE STILL HELD IN BEAVER JAIL

Acquitted of Murder, But Court Demands Good Behavior.

5-YEAR PLEDGE

Friends Seek Bail for Man Exonerated in Brother's Death.

Willis Miller, acquitted of a murder charge in connection with the fatal shooting of his brother, "Alabama Joe" Miller, reputed king of bootleggers in "Hell's Half Acre," near the state line last September, must post a $5,000 bond as a guarantee "to keep the peace and be of good behavior during a term of five years."

This was the ruling of Judge Frank E. Reader in the Beaver, Pa., common pleas court yesterday afternoon.

Taken Back to Jail.

"This court is satisfied that the testimony would have justified a verdict of guilty of homicide in some degree," said Judge Reader when he fixed the bond. Miller's attorney, Charles E. Stone, Beaver, who defended him during the murder trial, was in the court room when the prisoner was brought from the jail to face the judge.

Miller was sent back to jail until relatives can arrange for his bond. The bond is required under an old English law which the court invoked after the jury had returned a verdict of not guilty in the murder trial.

Miller claimed that he killed his brother in self-defense. He fled into West Virginia after the shooting and finally went to his home at Ironton, where he was arrested and returned to Beaver.

At the time of the shooting Miller is said to have been working for the Crucible Steel company, Midland.

He was a member of St. John's Lutheran church.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon in the Lutheran church, in charge of Rev. Dr. J. G. Reinartz. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

ROY LOEFFLER FALLS FROM HIS TRICYCLE IN MOTOR VEHICLE'S PATH

He is 78, But He Has Young Ideas, Three Cops Say

CINCINNATI, June 30.—David Lynn, 78, may be old in age but has young ideas. At least Policemen George Scholtman, Robert Kruyter and Homer Moreland so reported to their superior officer today.

It took the three to arrest Lynn on a warrant charging disorderly conduct. The policemen said Lynn used an iron pipe effectively and threatened them with a revolver before being subdued with a mace by Moreland.

Adopted Son of C. L. Weaver, Commerce Street, is Victim of Traffic Accident.

ACCIDENT OCCURS NEAR HIS HOME

Youngster, Riding Along Street, Tumbles in Front of Machine and is Crushed to Death.

Roy Loeffler, five years old, adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Weaver, 1733 Commerce street, Wellsville, was instantly killed at noon today when he fell from his tricycle beneath the rear wheel of a loaded coal truck in Commerce street, a short distance from his home.

The child was horribly crushed, the rear wheel of the truck passing directly over his hips.

The vehicle, operated by the firm of Martin and Kaul, of East Liverpool, was driven by Robert Martin, of 513 Eleventh street, Wellsville, and, it is said, had just left the Runyon scales and was proceeding uptown when the accident occurred. Martin has practically been exonerated from blame by city officials.

Foster Mother Prostrated

According to persons who saw the tragedy, Martin, headed toward Seventeenth street, was compelled to pull out in the middle of the street to pass a car parked on the right hand side of Commerce.

The Loeffler boy, riding his tricycle in the middle of the street, passed the front of the truck. Whether he fell from the tricycle or ran into the wheels is not certain. Martin, driving slowly, stopped the vehicle within 15 feet of the boy's body.

The child's father is living in Barnesville, Belmont county. His mother is dead. For a number of years he has been staying with the Weavers. Weaver is a Pennsylvania railroad mail clerk.

The lad's foster-mother was almost prostrated by the shock of the tragedy.

The body was removed to the D. N. McLean funeral home.

He denied the allegation of the police that he was speeding.

Turk, who has retained Attorney George T. Farrell, Lisbon, to represent him, waived preliminary examination. His bond was fixed at $2,000, which amount he posted following the accident Monday night after the manslaughter charge had been filed by Sheriff Wright at the request of Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. WEIRTON SCENE OF TWO FIRES

Pool Room and Residence Gutted by Flames Early Today.

Two fires which occurred at an early hour today resulted in a loss of approximately $7,000 in Weirton. Origin of the blazes has not been determined.

The fire department was called about 2 o'clock to the Coal Valley pool room in Main street where after a hard fight the flames were extinguished. The building, which is owned by George Lornetan was damaged to the extent of $2,000.

Two hours later an alarm was sounded from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Harper Nelson in Harmon avenue. The flames spread rapidly and as the firemen were handicapped by lack of fire plugs in that section of the city the home was totally destroyed. The owner, George Dain, estimated the loss at $5,000 to building and contents.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, were not at home having left yesterday for a visit in Youngstown.

CHESTER TO MEET KNOWLES SQUAD

Chester baseball team, resting in second place today in the Industrial league race as a result of a defeat last night at the hands of Homer Laughlin, is scheduled to meet Knowles, Taylor and Knowles tonight at Columbian park, East Liverpool.

Manager Riley's team lost to the Newell tossers in a weird contest which was not decided until darkness set in and which handicapped players of both teams in following the ball.

Mike Cebula was touched up lively at times and in addition developed streaks of wildness at critical periods. Errors behind him also figured largely in the defeat of the locals.

TRAFFIC LAW VIOLATORS FINED

Seven persons arrested for alleged violation of the state road laws by state troopers in Chester and Newell during the recent visit to this section by state troopers were each fined $10 and costs when arraigned before Justice John A. Mylar of Newell.

Two others were taken into custody at Weirton and were assessed fines when arraigned before Justice Morgan Jones.

HONORS CAPTURED BY STATE LEGION

National honor and prestige for this state has been won by the department of West Virginia of the American Legion, according to information received here today from national headquarters.

West Virginia will march in sixth position in the great legion national convention parade to be held in Philadelphia in October by having finished in that position in a national membership contest to determine parade position, seating arrangements and accommodations at the convention city.

Those honors are coveted by 49 state departments and eight departments outside the continental limits of the United States.

Bake Sale Arranged.

Eastern Star Fancywork club will hold a bake sale Saturday afternoon in the Stewart building, Third street and Carolina avenue.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Bee and Lou are modern girls sharing a Greenwich Village apartment. Bee is an actress, at present in the chorus, but keeping a stiff upper lip and a fond hope of success. Into the Village comes Delia, frail poetress of New England, seeking freedom from the repressions of her home. And Bee, a school chum of the freedom seeker, invites her to share their apartment. Delia is determined to win through to the freedom she came for. She is left alone in the apartment, as Bee goes off to practice at the theatre.

Now go on with story.

CHAPTER THREE.

Delia, her coat thrown carelessly aside but her hat still on, sat quietly in the wicker chair by the window; quietly, but her slim fingers were tightly clasped. She unclasped them only to twist her handkerchief into a tight ball. People moved about in the street and park below, assured New Yorkers. Tomorrow she'd go up to the Metropolitan Museum. And perhaps Times Square in the evening to see the electric signs. It wouldn't be like Worcester. She ought to unpack and hang up her things. But she couldn't. Not yet. There were sounds here in the building. A telephone rang and rang somewhere below. She wished they'd answer it. A pleasant boyish voice called up the stairs and a girl called back something or other. Others lived here, too. She wondered about them. Those voices had a jolly, free-and-easy sound. The boy, or man, ran up a flight of stairs; a door opened and closed; more faintly she could hear their voices. So they visited around in one another's rooms. Of course, though. Greenwich Village. You wouldn't have to keep thinking frantically about the observances, as in Worcester. Yes, they still did that in Worcester, the older people. The younger ones kept their own counsel. It would have be honester here—Freedom!

Her fingers moved curiously toward the box that Bee had said was Russian. A yellow and green boy and girl against a red background. Very gay. She opened it. There were the cigarettes. She had never smoked enough to feel comfortable about it. She lighted one and tried to hold it with a casual naturalness between the first and third fingers. And decided not to puff so hard.

Her eyes rested on the book-shelves. Modern-looking volumes in black and orange and red. There was Freud on Dreams and Psycho-analysis. She had meant for years to read Freud. But there'd been little extra money at home for books. Besides, the family were forever in and out of her room, and Freud would have disturbed their Puritan calm. There were many volumes of poetry, by men and women she'd never heard of. She glanced into two or three; free verse, for the most part, each page with its challenge in the new bold manner that stirred a long-suppressed tingle in her blood.

And below, the street door opened and closed, a muffled sound. Then steps on the stairs. One flight they mounted, then another — the third, very near. A man, she thought. Now he was coming slowly along the hall; he stood a long moment outside. She heard a rustling and a faint jingle; then a key grated into the lock and turned.

She neither moved nor spoke. She couldn't.

The door opened. Yes, it was a man—young, blond, slender. Not a strong sort. She caught a quick impression of small features, a sensitive down-drooping mouth, very pale eyes with confusion in them. Though of good height, he moved almost like a girl and seemed small. She noted a slender white hand on the door knob, a remarkable sensitive hand. He carried a parcel rolled up in a newspaper and a wooden box with a handle.

All he said was "Oh!" And stood there.

She was frightened, a little, and altogether confused; and yet she had to repress a giggle. After all, why not adventure? Let it come rushing at you? Why not?

"I didn't suppose there'd be any body here," he said; forlornly, she thought. His voice was gentle and pitched rather high.

"Neither did I." That somewhat hysterical giggle again. She felt his wan eyes on her and caught herself.

"You may have heard the girls speak of me. I'm Wilbur Sayles."

"I haven't heard them speak of anybody. I—I just came." What a thin little voice hers was!

"Well—" he partly closed the door, then hesitated. "Do you mind if I come in? I'm supposed to—well, to wait here."

"So am I."

This reassured him. He did close the door. Dropped parcel and box on the couch and sank down beside them. Then abruptly he covered his face with his hands and swayed back and forth. She watched him, all alert curious interest, fascinated indeed. He looked almost as if he might be going to cry.

"Don't you feel well?" she heard herself asking. In a prim little voice which the new freedom in her spirit instantly and hotly resented. It mustn't sound like that. She would learn to talk easily and prettily, like Bee. Breathe more deeply.

"I feel like the devil. Oh, not health. It's mental."

"Oh! That's too bad." Still prim, in spite of that inner struggle. Could it be that she was, with all said and done, nothing but a congenial little spinster from Worcester?

He jumped up, giving her a start, and went to the window. Stared down into the park. "I'm afraid I've done a terrible thing."

Certainly this strange youth was full of self, and made no bones about it. "Natural," she thought. "Perfectly natural. I must be natural too."

'Now that I've done it, I've got to believe that Lou was right. I've got to. You know Lou?"

"No, I don't. I've never even seen her."

"Then you're a friend of Bee's?" She nodded.

"Bee's a peach. Just a born good scout. Take her right now, you'd never know what she's up against."

"Is she in trouble?"

"Oh, yes. But you wouldn't know. Out of work for months. She picked up this chorus job to keep alive. She had a pretty good part promised with the Guild, but they decided on a taller girl. And she got her notice last week, over here."

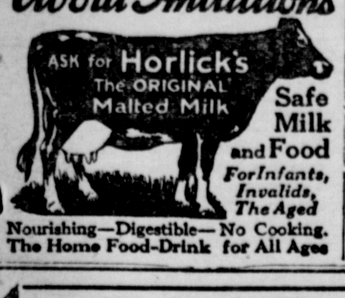

"Got her notice?"

"Yes. Out. Saturday night. But Bee always keeps up a front."

Ten Years of Suffering Ended When He Took Dreco

Says He Was a Complete Wreck and Must Have Taken a Barrel of Medicine Without Getting Any Better.

The following statement was given to the Dreco man by Mr. John Gostosri, 1032 Walter street, Pittsburgh, Pa. He says:

For about ten or twelve years I have suffered so with my stomach my whole system became rundown. I ate scarcely anything but even then I would be in great distress with indigestion. I could not eat solid foods of any kind and I was so constipated my abdomen felt like it was filled with solid rock. I was also troubled with sick headaches and was so nervous I shook like I had the palsy. My liver was also very sluggish which made me suffer from dizzy spells that caused me to stagger so I overheard my friends say "John is drunk." I could not sleep at night and just seemed to lose all my strength.

"Dreco has surely done wonders for me. Before I began on it I must have taken a barrel of other medicine without getting a blessed bit of relief, yet Dreco made me well in seven weeks. Now I feel more like 45 than 67.

"I'm never troubled wth my stomach, liver and bowels anymore and the dizzy spells and nervousness have vanished. A thousand dollars wouldn't pay me to go back to the same condition I was in before taking Dreco."

There would be less sickness and fewer hospitals in the country today if people would only heed the early warnings sent out by Nature that something is wrong. Dizziness, gas on the stomach, headaches, pain in joints, poor digestion, belching, nervousness are sure signs of coming illness.

Mr. O'Conner, the well-known Expert from the Dreco Laboratories now at Mathews' Medicine Store is telling scores of people every day how to take Dreco for best results. Go to see him. His advice is free.

Just Like a Man

"My husband suffered for several years with stomach trouble. He often had colic attacks that put him to bed. But a man can't stand the pains that a woman can. He thought he was going to die and the doctors didn't seem to help him any. Like a drowning man grasping for a straw he tried MAYR'S, which a nurse told us about, and now he is entirely well and eats anything." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway and Druggists Everywhere.

"Bee's a peach. Just a born good scout. Take her right now, you'd never know what she's up against."

"Is she in trouble?"

"Oh, yes. But you wouldn't know. Out of work for months. She picked up this chorus job to keep alive. She had a pretty good part promised with the Guild, but they decided on a taller girl. And she got her notice last week, over here."

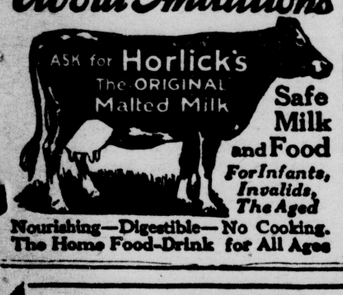

"Got her notice?"

"Yes. Out. Saturday night. But Bee always keeps up a front."

Just Like a Man

"My husband suffered for several years with stomach trouble. He often had colic attacks that put him to bed. But a man can't stand the pains that a woman can. He thought he was going to die and the doctors didn't seem to help him any. Like a drowning man grasping for a straw he tried MAYR'S, which a nurse told us about, and now he is entirely well and eats anything." Ten Years of Suffering Ended When He Took Dreco

Says He Was a Complete Wreck and Must Have Taken a Barrel of Medicine Without Getting Any Better.

The following statement was given to the Dreco man by Mr. John Gostosri, 1032 Walter street, Pittsburgh, Pa. He says:

For about ten or twelve years I have suffered so with my stomach my whole system became rundown. I ate scarcely anything but even then I would be in great distress with indigestion. I could not eat solid foods of any kind and I was so constipated my abdomen felt like it was filled with solid rock. I was also troubled with sick headaches and was so nervous I shook like I had the palsy. My liver was also very sluggish which made me suffer from dizzy spells that caused me to stagger so I overheard my friends say "John is drunk." I could not sleep at night and just seemed to lose all my strength.

"Dreco has surely done wonders for me. Before I began on it I must have taken a barrel of other medicine without getting a blessed bit of relief, yet Dreco made me well in seven weeks. Now I feel more like 45 than 67.

"I'm never troubled wth my stomach, liver and bowels anymore and the dizzy spells and nervousness have vanished. A thousand dollars wouldn't pay me to go back to the same condition I was in before taking Dreco."

There would be less sickness and fewer hospitals in the country today if people would only heed the early warnings sent out by Nature that something is wrong. Dizziness, gas on the stomach, headaches, painful joints, poor digestion, belching, nervousness are sure signs of coming illness.

Mr. O'Conner, the well-known Expert from the Dreco Laboratories now at Mathews' Medicine Store is telling scores of people every day how to take Dreco for best results. Go to see him. His advice is free.

Another City Bans Fireworks

Youngstown today is added to the list of cities that believe in a "safe and sane Fourth."

The acting mayor of the Mahoning county metropolis has banned the sale and discharge of pyrotechnics this year. Most communities of any size have tabooed the dangerous explosives.

In East Liverpool, where councilmen back-pedalled and repealed a "safe and sane" ordinance, which has been referred to Mayor Benedum for approval or rejection, some parents scornfully say, "Aw, what's the harm in a few firecrackers? You ought to see the stuff I used to set off when I was a kid." Or "What's the Fourth without fireworks." They have forgotten why the prohibitory legislation was adopted.

Deaths and injuries became so numerous a few years ago that a toll of more than a thousand children dead and many more thousands blinded or otherwise injured was taken for granted as a necessary outcome of the holiday. When things got to that pass, enlightened communities decided to put an end to this slaughter of children. The day, in these places, has ceased to be one of horror, and become what it should be, a pleasant day of celebration.

Nor need the most enjoyable fireworks be lacking. The night fireworks, in the hands of a committee of adults who are careful and wise with them, may still give pleasure to everybody for miles around.

Skilled Labor Temperate

Writing about liquor conditions in Quebec, which has a moderate degree of prohibition, Norman Hapgood says there are taverns left, and men do get drunk in them. But thereby hangs an interesting fact, applying to the whole of our modern industrial civilization.

The men he sees coming out of those taverns drunk, says Hapgood, are not skilled workmen. "They drink seldom, and almost never to excess." Those who get drunk are "a few sailors, and the lowest class of labor."

Thus in Quebec, as in the United States, skilled labor is characterized by temperance.

Modern industry is responsible for that, he concludes. Temperance naturally come with high-powered machinery and the need of accurate, responsible manual work. Just as, according to Henry Ford, "the motor and drink don't mix," so drink and engineering don't mix, nor drink and pottery-making, nor drink and carpentry, nor drink and bricklaying, nor drink and plastering, nor drink and trip-hammers.

Thus, for economic reasons, quite aside from moral reasons, there is every reason why this should be a sober age. The whole force of our modern industrial life is working against alcohol, because alcohol is the enemy of skilled industry, and the intelligent workman would rather ride forward on a wave of industrial opportunity that sacrifice his future to booze.

Sport Clothes In France

With women going in for sports like men, French sportswomen spring a surprise in the matter of costume. They do not agree that athletics will justify costumes approaching nakedness.

The Federation of French Sporting Women rules that any member will be suspended from membership if she wears abbreviated running trunks, skin-tight swimming suits or sleeveless tennis dresses. Trunks must reach below the knee, sleeves must cover eno-fourth of the arm and bathing suits must be designed for bathing rather than for exploiting the feminine figure.

Coming from a nation supposed to be rather daring in clothes and loose in morals, this may arouse reflection in the minds of a good many American women.

D'Annunzio Seeing Things

Gabriele D'Annunzio, the famous Italian poet who rampaged up and down, by air, land and water, during the war, has been going from one fervor to another ever since. His latest adventure is a visitation from the great Hungarian composer, Franz Liszt, who died 50 years ago.

The poet had just had a new piano installed in his villa at Gordone. He writes to the piano manufacturers telling the story of the instrument's dedication. The first evening it began, all of itself, to vibrate with rare harmonies.

"This is a place of mysteries and prodigies," he says. "Not without trembling I perceived that the shadow of Liszt, who was once a guest here, had entered the instrument and was producing with long, immaterial fingers, a beautiful rhythmic tempest."

Mad, or merely imaginative? Probably both. This is no madder than scattering war sonnets over Italy from an airplane, or leading Italy in a wild and costly crusade for the "redemption" of worthless territory, or seizing and holding Fiume in defiance of his own government, or a hundred other mad escapades, poetic, erotic and patriotic. The wonder is that a great nation has so long taken this crazy genius seriously.

The latest bathtub incident is shocking, but not scandalous. A girl in Akron was shocked to death trying to use an electric curling iron while in a tubful of water. Mixing water and electricity is worse than mixing drinks.

Indian women seem to be arriving socially. Two oil heiresses of the Osage tribe have been killed for their money.

Pathetic Figures— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 30.—There are thin rumors that most of the young literary lions of Gotham who were suddenly plucked at stupendous salaries to illuminate the Hollywood movie heavens soared briefly and landed with the customary dull, sickening thud.

Many who trekked westward all merry and bright expecting to be darlings of the hour, found themselves cooling their heels in ante-rooms in the manner of the movie extras. Los Angeles had evidently grown too big to turn out en masse at the depot meeting visitors.

There seemed to be no confusion in the minds of the movie magnates as to who was more important the star, director or authkor. The latter invariably ran third. Quite a number had been impressed by stories of grandeur among the literati.

They expected to gaze each morning at the snow-fringed Sierras through the French windows of a Spanish castle and be whisked to the studio in a scarlet-eyed dragon of a car. They would receive the press after luncheon in a reigning star's patio. Once newspaper boys themselves, you know!

This picture was a little overdrawn. One young man, tailored to a Fifth Avenue gloss, in a two days search could not find anyone who knew he had been hired, and he was three days more reaching the star who had made the arrangement. He waited ten more days and came home.

Most of them discovered the heavy enthusiasm displayed over New York luncheon tables had cooled in transit. "O, yet, we did have a talk in New York. Glad you are here. See Blinks, the director, but he is busy on a set for a few days. Make yourself comfortable. Here's a cigar!"

The travelers learned what old movie heads have long known. The director makes the picture. A star is quite important, but the author comparatively is not. Even Michael Arlen learned that. The author may sell his wares at a high figure, but in the actual making of a picture he is regarded as a bit of nuisance.

Cocktail shakers are now offered with music box attachments. When lifted they grind out "How Dry I Am!"

Gaudy cocktail shakers were almost unknown until recently. They were purchased in the basement of department stores. Today they are exhibited in the windows of the most expensive jewelers. Some of them are priced as high as $400, and with a set of glasses and tray reach a thousand dollars.

All of these drinking fripperies might indicate Manhattan is concerned chiefly in intoxication, yet the biggest scandal of the year concerned watered milk.

For several months my contacts with New York have been intermittent. Somehow, one of the biggest impressions is a falling off in those wild parties we used to hear about in apartments. The town may be drinking more, but it is showing it less.

Conrad Berkovici, the writer, and Charlie Chaplin are warm friends. On a recent visit to New York Conrad was visiting the movie star in his hotel apartment, along with another gentleman. A social climber dropped in and invited Chaplin to dinner on a certain evening. He also invited the other gentleman, but neglected Berkovici. Both accepted before the slight to the writer took place, but the night of the dinner Chaplin phoned Berkovici to join him at a little cafe on Second avenue, and while a large gathering waited for Chaplin, he and his friend dined. Chaplin never referred to the incident.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Getting Out The Vote.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 30. — Under the leadership of John Hays Hammond, who has accepted the chairmanship of the department of political education of the National Civic Federation, an early start is being made with a campaign to get voters to the polls at the November elections, and at the intervening primaries. While there was a "get-out-the-vote" campaign in 1924, in which many organizations took part, and there have been local efforts along this line in many places in previous years, the energy and organizing ability of Mr. Hammond, and the type of citizens making up the committee working with him, give a basis for hope that the 1926 effort will produce something better than the 51 per cent vote scored two years ago, and the 49 per cent vote recorded in 1920.

Mr. Hammond has the advantage of attacking the problem of non-voting from an independent view-point. He has never been a politician nor an office holder but he has been enormously successful as a business organizer. While he has lived in Washington in recent years, and acted occasionally as a member of special commissions such as that which surveyed the coal industry, his concern with voting is much deeper than that of the office seeker. He wants Americans to vote because by no other method can self government be maintained.

Having not only travelled, but transacted business on a large scale in many parts of the world, Mr. Hammond knows a great deal about governments and how they affect the life of peoples. His concern for his own country, when he sees half of the people taking no part in their Government, and many of this half the best educated people, is based on facts which he knows from experience. He knows Russia and the Russian people, and appreciates that the country has practically every natural advantage of the United States, every natural resource of materials, soil, and climate. He knows that the Russian people have great talents, ruggedness, strength, and genius. And he observes all of this, the elements of a great and happy nation, in sad straits because Russia has not yet been able to evolve a government under which people can work and live successfully and happily.

He has studied China and her people, and observes one of the most popu*lous and thrifty races on the earth* on the verge of actual starvation because no system of government is in operation capable of allowing life to go forward on any sane basis. He has noted the struggle of Europe to recover from war and establish peace, and has viewed the aspirations of powerful and noble peoples shattered by the inability of governments to function effectively. Observing that the Republic of the United States is one of the few successful large governments in the world today, he is concerned about keeping it so.

A Model Public Servant

In leading a national campaign for political education, Mr. Hammond is therefore probably as free from party prejudice or narrow vision as a man well can be. He is more than seventy years old, comfortably equipped with worldly goods, and could spend his time playing golf if he preferred. That he busies himself tirelessly at public service indicates how serious he believes the situation of our country to be, with government largely in the hands of selfish minorities and organized cliques because the busy mass of the population is willing to let some one else attend to its politics.

The National Civic Federation is seeking to drive this fact home throughout the country, as it organizes local committees and urges a larger measure of voting—of well-informed voting. It tells the people of New York that their recent milk graft scandals are their own fault. They let other folks do their voting and choose their officials. It tells the people of Chicago that gunmen, freed by easy parole boards, bailed by easy judges, protected by easy law enforcement officials, are the fault of the people who do not vote.

It tells the people of Pennsylvania that the new primary election scandals, revealing millions of dollars spent to control the choices for Senator and Governor, are solely possible because the people of the State allow their politics to be run by organized bosses, big and little, who swing the uninformed voters by expensive methods. The well informed could control any primary if they would vote, and their votes could not be controlled by any number of millions of dollars.

Voting statistics for the whole nation covering the 1920 and 1924 presidential elections show that 49 and 51 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots in those years. During the interval, in 1922, when every Representative and one-third of the Senators and many Governors were elected, as will be the case this year, the vote was smaller. The effort to increase the vote in 1924, by many different societies and organizations, resulted in 31 states registering a larger vote than in 1920, but this was largely offset by 17 states which had fewer voters in 1924 than four years earlier.

The States where voting declined were Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiona, Maine, Maryland, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia.

Not a Party Issue.

These were fairly well divided between Republican and Democratic strongholds, and prove that negligence about the affairs of government is no party matter. While both parties number millions of so-called supporters who do not bother to vote, and the independent voters complain somewhat but vote little, there are well organized movements going on which aim to destroy the whole scheme of American Government, and establish government by bullets instead of ballots. The constant failure of the voters to attend to the business of self government gives encouragement to every plan for the overthrow of government by force.

A recent survey revealed more than one thousand publications in the United States devoted to doctrines of revolution and the destruction of orderly government. Speakers and organizers for these movements remain alertly on the job. They express no hope of ever mustering a majority of the country by vote, but they confi-

ABSOLUTELY UNFITTED FOR THE ROLE.

A few months before his death Gen. Basil Duke of Kentucky, who commanded Morgan's Cavalry after the killing of his brother-in-law, Gen. John Morgan, told this tale at a Confederate reunion in his home city of Louisville:

He said that during one of the Tennessee campaigns Morgan's men surprised and routed a regiment of Federal troopers. In the midst of the retreat one of the enemy, who was mounted upon a big bay horse, suddenly turned and charged the victorious Confederates full-tilt, waving his arm and shrieking like mad as he bore down upon them alone. Respecting such marvelous courage, the Confederates forbode shooting at the approaching foe, but when he was right upon them they saw there was a different reason for his foolhardiness.

He was a green recruit. His horse had run away with him—the bit had broken, and white as a sheet and scared stiff, the luckless youth was being propelled straight at the whooping Kentuckians, begging for mercy as he came.

Jeff Sterritt, a noted wit of the command, stopped the horse and made a willing prisoner of the rider. Sterritt, who had not washed or shaved for days and was a ferocious looking person, pulled out a big pistol and wagged its muzzle in the terrified Federal's face.

"I don't know whether to kill you right now," he said, "or wait until the fight is over!"

"Mister," begged the quivering captive, "as a favor to me, please don't do it at all! I'm a dissipated character—and I ain't prepared to die!"

All of these drinking fripperies might indicate Manhattan is concerned chiefly in intoxication, yet the biggest scandal of the year concerned watered milk.

For several months my contacts with New York have been intermittent. Somehow, one of the biggest impressions is a falling off in those wild parties we used to hear about in apartments. The town may be drinking more, but it is showing it less.

Conrad Berkovici, the writer, and Charlie Chaplin are warm friends. On a recent visit to New York Conrad was visiting the movie star in his hotel apartment, along with another gentleman. A social climber dropped in and invited Chaplin to dinner on a certain evening. He also invited the other gentleman, but neglected Berkovici. Both accepted before the slight to the writer took place, but the night of the dinner Chaplin phoned Berkovici to join him at a little cafe on Second avenue, and while a large gathering waited for Chaplin, he and his friend dined. Chaplin never referred to the incident.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Getting Out The Vote.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 30. — Under the leadership of John Hays Hammond, who has accepted the chairmanship of the department of political education of the National Civic Federation, an early start is being made with a campaign to get voters to the polls at the November elections, and at the intervening primaries. While there was a "get-out-the-vote" campaign in 1924, in which many organizations took part, and there have been local efforts along this line in many places in previous years, the energy and organizing ability of Mr. Hammond, and the type of citizens making up the committee working with him, give a basis for hope that the 1926 effort will produce something better than the 51 per cent vote scored two years ago, and the 49 per cent vote recorded in 1920.

Mr. Hammond has the advantage of attacking the problem of non-voting from an independent view-point. He has never been a politician nor an office holder but he has been enormously successful as a business organizer. While he has lived in Washington in recent years, and acted occasionally as a member of special commissions such as that which surveyed the coal industry, his concern with voting is much deeper than that of the office seeker. He wants Americans to vote because by no other method can self government be maintained.

Having not only travelled, but transacted business on a large scale in many parts of the world, Mr. Hammond knows a great deal about governments and how they affect the life of peoples. His concern for his own country, when he sees half of the people taking no part in their Government, and many of this half the best educated people, is based on facts which he knows from experience. He knows Russia and the Russian people, and appreciates that the country has practically every natural advantage of the United States, every natural resource of materials, soil, and climate. He knows that the Russian people have great talents, ruggedness, strength, and genius. And he observes all of this, the elements of a great and happy nation, in sad straits because Russia has not yet been able to evolve a government under which people can work and live successfully and happily.

He has studied China and her people, and observes one of the most populous and thrifty races on the earth on the verge of actual starvation because no system of government is in operation capable of allowing life to go forward on any sane basis. He has noted the struggle of Europe to recover from war and establish peace, and has viewed the aspirations of powerful and noble peoples shattered by the inability of governments to function effectively. Observing that the Republic of the United States is one of the few successful large governments in the world today, he is concerned about keeping it so.

A Model Public Servant

In leading a national campaign for political education, Mr. Hammond is therefore probably as free from party prejudice or narrow vision as a man well can be. He is more than seventy years old, comfortably equipped with worldly goods, and could spend his time playing golf if he preferred. That he busies himself tirelessly at public service indicates how serious he believes the situation of our country to be, with government largely in the hands of selfish minorities and organized cliques because the busy mass of the population is willing to let some one else attend to its politics.

The National Civic Federation is seeking to drive this fact home throughout the country, as it organizes local committees and urges a larger measure of voting—of well-informed voting. It tells the people of New York that their recent milk graft scandals are their own fault. They let other folks do their voting and choose their officials. It tells the people of Chicago that gunmen, freed by easy parole boards, bailed by easy judges, protected by easy law enforcement officials, are the fault of the people who do not vote.

It tells the people of Pennsylvania that the new primary election scandals, revealing millions of dollars spent to control the choices for Senator and Governor, are solely possible because the people of the State allow their politics to be run by organized bosses, big and little, who swing the uninformed voters by expensive methods. The well informed could control any primary if they would vote, and their votes could not be controlled by any number of millions of dollars.

Voting statistics for the whole nation covering the 1920 and 1924 presidential elections show that 49 and 51 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots in those years. During the interval, in 1922, when every Representative and one-third of the Senators and many Governors were elected, as will be the case this year, the vote was smaller. The effort to increase the vote in 1924, by many different societies and organizations, resulted in 31 states registering a larger vote than in 1920, but this was largely offset by 17 states which had fewer voters in 1924 than four years earlier.

The States where voting declined were Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiona, Maine, Maryland, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia.

Not a Party Issue.

These were fairly well divided between Republican and Democratic strongholds, and prove that negligence about the affairs of government is no party matter. While both parties number millions of so-called supporters who do not bother to vote, and the independent voters complain somewhat but vote little, there are well organized movements going on which aim to destroy the whole scheme of American Government, and establish government by bullets instead of ballots. The constant failure of the voters to attend to the business of self government gives encouragement to every plan for the overthrow of government by force.

A recent survey revealed more than one thousand publications in the United States devoted to doctrines of revolution and the destruction of orderly government. Speakers and organizers for these movements remain alertly on the job. They express no hope of ever mustering a majority of the country by vote, but they confi-

ABSOLUTELY UNFITTED FOR THE ROLE.

A few months before his death Gen. Basil Duke of Kentucky, who commanded Morgan's Cavalry after the killing of his brother-in-law, Gen. John Morgan, told this tale at a Confederate reunion in his home city of Louisville:

He said that during one of the Tennessee campaigns Morgan's men surprised and routed a regiment of Federal troopers. In the midst of the retreat one of the enemy, who was mounted upon a big bay horse, suddenly turned and charged the victorious Confederates full-tilt, waving his arm and shrieking like mad as he bore down upon them alone. Respecting such marvelous courage, the Confederates forbode shooting at the approaching foe, but when he was right upon them they saw there was a different reason for his foolhardiness.

He was a green recruit. His horse had run away with him—the bit had broken, and white as a sheet and scared stiff, the luckless youth was being propelled straight at the whooping Kentuckians, begging for mercy as he came.

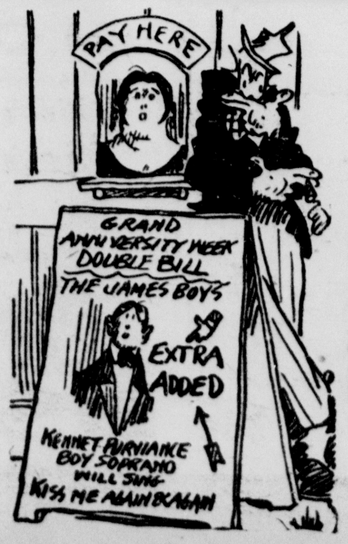

Jeff Sterritt, a noted wit of the command, stopped the horse and made a willing prisoner of the rider. Sterritt, who had not washed or shaved for days and was a ferocious looking person, pulled out a big pistol and wagged its muzzle in the terrified Federal's face.

"I don't know whether to kill you right now," he said, "or wait until the fight is over!"

"Mister," begged the quivering captive, "as a favor to me, please don't do it at all! I'm a dissipated character—and I ain't prepared to die!"

DETRICK WINS COACHING JOB

Will Take Charge of Ohio Wesleyan Cage Squad.

Raymond O. Detrick, former head basketball coach at Mount Union college, the man who directed the destinies of two royal purple quintets which captured Ohio Conference basketball laurels during the seasons of 1923-24 and 1924-25, has been appointed head basketball coach at Ohio Wesleyan university, according to announcement by officials of the Delaware institution.

Detrick, a Wittenberg product, took his first coaching assignment at Wellsville high school following his graduation, giving the Orange and Black some of its best athletic teams over a long period of years.

From Wellsville he went to Mount Union where he coached for two years. It will be remembered that Detrick resigned as cage mentor there after having aroused the ire of Mount executive heads when he is alleged to have played independent basketball after having been warned against such practice.

Detrick will serve as assistant football and baseball coach also at the Delaware school, according to B. F. Van Alstyne.

Arrangements have been made by the Pennsylvania Railroad to advertise its territory and the community which it serves by means of the radio. For this purpose, arrangements have been completed with the Radio Corporation of America to broadcast a concert-travelogue, provided by the company, every Tuesday between nine and ten p. m., Eastern Daylight Saving Time, from Station WJZ in New York City. The first Pennsylvania railroad program was on the air last night. Music for the entire series of entertainments will be supplied by professional artists of national reputation. From time to time talented employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad will supplement the work of the professionals. Each program will be presented in a railroad atmosphere, created by the brief travelogue features which will be interspersed between the musical numbers. Each night's program will be based on a journey over some particular portion of the Pennsylvania Railroad or on one of its famous trains. Some of the journeys, instead of being those of passengers, will cover the movement of a freight shipment on one of the Pennsylvania's scheduled freight trains which, like the fast passenger limiteds, have their own individual names. The travelogues will give in very brief form interesting information about the cities and communities on the Pennsylvania Lines, and will refer to points of historic interest or scenic beauty passed on the way.

SIMPLE HINT for the Woman who wishes to reduce

New York—There is on the market a good formula called SAN-GRI-NA, which is considered harmless and efficacious. Some people have been prejudiced about taking anything internal to reduce, but actual results from SAN-GRI-NA have caused even physicians to recommend it—amongst many who have reduced Miss C., a graduate nurse from Brooklyn, states that she lost a total of 22 pounds with SAN-GRI-NA, feels better—can work, think and remember better than she has done for years.

Furthermore for those who wish to have their physician investigate it the Company which puts out SAN-GRI-NA offers to send any physician a free package for his approval.

SAN-GRI-NA is not sold under false promises of over night reduction—Cases of reduction are seldom more than 3 to 4 lbs. a week—SAN-GRI-NA is not expensive and is considered a splendid way to reduce at a price within the reach of all.

Sold at any good drug or dept. store with the understanding that if the patient does not reduce after giving the treatment a fair trial the money will be refunded.

SIMPLE HINT for the Woman who wishes to reduce

NEW YORK—There is on the market a good formula called SAN-GRI-NA, which is considered harmless and efficacious. Some people have been prejudiced about taking anything internal to reduce, but actual results from SAN-GRI-NA have caused even physicians to recommend it—amongst many who have reduced Miss C., a graduate nurse from Brooklyn, states that she lost a total of 22 pounds with SAN-GRI-NA, feels better—can work, think and remember better than she has done for years.

Furthermore for those who wish to have their physician investigate it the Company which puts out SAN-GRI-NA offers to send any physician a free package for his approval.

SAN-GRI-NA is not sold under false promises of over night reduction—Cases of reduction are seldom more than 3 to 6 lbs. a week—SAN-GRI-NA is not expensive and is considered a splendid way to reduce at a price within the reach of all.

Sold at any good drug or dept. store with the understanding that if the patient does not reduce after giving the treatment a fair trial the money will be refunded.

NORTHERN OHIO ENJOYS MILD WEATHER AFTER ONE-DAY HEAT WAVE

Col. Archer's Address

plumbing firm of Zange & Bence. He is making a tour of the country in the interests of the National Trade Extension bureau. He is a world traveler, having spent several years in Europe and Asia, where he made a study of sanitation problems.

At the opening of his address, he said the sanitation systems in use in many of the larger cities of the United States are practically the same as those which were used by the ancients.

"A few years ago I stood in the city of Babylon, which 5,000 years ago boasted a population of several million people," Acher said. "That city had a sewer system equally as good as New York's. Wherever a civilization has lived and prospered it has had sanitation or it could not have become what it is now."

He cited the fact that last year the National Trade Extension bureau established 79 schools in which the plumbing and other building trades were taught. He asserted there is demand for at least 3,500 journeymen plumbers in the United States this year.

"But the plumbing trade is only one of the building crafts which is suffering from the lack of workers," he said. According to statistics, Col. Archer declared, but 375 men learned the plastering trade last year.

"If this keeps up plasterers will be placed in museums where an admission will be charged to see them. Similar shortages have been reported in the bricklaying, carpenter, electrician and other building crafts throughout the country.

Chance for Over-privileged Boy.

"We often hear the statement that all men are created free and equal," he said. "I will grant that all men are created free but I deny that all are created equal. In Europe the day that a boy is born he is dedicated to the trade, business or profession of his father. There are stores in London where the names above the doors look as though they have not been changed for a thousand years. Just as soon as the father dies his sons take over the business and so on.

"Some years ago, every president of the United States used to point to the log hut or cabin where he was born. With our big institutions and hospitals today what chance has a man to become president? When he matures he can point to a hospital and say it was there where he first saw the light of day.

"The American boy today is being taught that there is something wrong with the man who works with his hands with the result that the building trades are suffering. Can you think of anything bigger for a man to accomplish than to erect a gigantic bridge across the river, to build the big ocean liners and other similar feats?

"Not many mothers would take pride to see her daughter come walking home in the evening with the man in overalls. Yet that is the way that Henry Ford, Charles Schwab and other present day captains of industry obtained their start. I am pleading to you for an equal chance for this over-privileged boy.

"The over-privilegede boy is forgetting how to walk. He rides to school in an automobile. Boys used to run their mother's errands, but in this day of inventions the telephones are used for that work.

"I appeal to you fathers to make companions of your boys and of your neighbor's boy. Get out in the alley and play ball with them—forget chasing the ball around the golf links. In this way you Rotarians will be able to 'profit most by serving best.'"

Mercury Reaches 92-degree Mark in East Liverpool While Thousands Swelter in Other Cities.

MOTHS RIDE ON LAKE BREEZES

Hot Spell Broken in Sandusky by Severe Electrical and Wind Storm of Almost Tornado Proportions.

CLEVELAND, June 30.—Northern Ohio was enjoying mild weather today as the result of cooling lake breezes which followed yesterday's heat spell. The sun, however, was scheduled to put in some more good licks in the central part of the state and along the Kentucky border, according to the weatherman.

The mercury reached almost 90 degrees in the shade here late yesterday, setting a high mark for the year. Relief was brought thousands of sweltering Clevelanders by a brisk thunder shower accompanied by a high wind that did come damage to trees and outbuildings.

The lake winds which set in last night blew myriads of large moths, known as "Canadian soldiers," into the city. This morning the walls of downtown buildings, sidewalks and trees were covered with the insects.

Tiffin Has Highest Temperature.

"Yesterday's heat wave was too short lived in the northern part of the state to do much damage," the weatherman said today. "The warm weather was followed too quickly by showers and cool winds."

Tiffin, Ohio, reported the highest temperature in the state with a mark of 94; East Liverpool had 92; Marion, Newark and Zanesville had 90; Dayton 89½; Columbus, Cincinnati, Marietta and Lima 89, and Akron 84.

SANDUSKY, June 30.—The hot spell was broken here by a severe electrical storm accompanied by winds of almost tornado proportions which caused much damage to small buildings, telephone poles and trees. Cherry orchards south of here were hard hit and many bushels of ripening fruit were ruined.

MARIETTA, June 30.—During the night thunder showers cooled the atmosphere here after a maximum temperature yesterday of 89 degrees.

Mercury Soars in Dayton.

DAYTON, June 30.—This city's first real heat wave of the year started yesterday when the mercury climbed to 89½ for the day, establishing a record for the year.

A rainstorm last night, notwithstanding its short duration, cooled the air and made sleeping more comfortable.

The weatherman promises continued warm today and suggested that the "wave might continue during the rest of the week.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 30.—A rush to buy United States Steel and General Motors in early trading today made speculative leaders the outstanding features of the market. Steel common sold up to a new record high price of 142 in the first half hour, under an enormously heavy turnover. General Motors rose to 148⅞, shattering all of the previous high records of the year.

Willys Overland also continued its spectacular market career, with heavy trading at 30 which represents a steady advance of nearly 10 points on the movement. Under the respective leadership of American Smelting and United Cigar Stores, the copper and tobacco stocks enjoyed a strong and active market; Independent Steel stocks and public utilities advanced into slightly higher price ground in active trading.

Rails and oils were steady, but featureless, with dividend stocks like Atchison and New York Central in the former, and Shell Union and Marland in the latter receiving the most notice. Rubber and tire stocks were again irregular.

Call money renewals continued at 5 per cent; French francs and other European currencies were unsteady, france declining to 2.80½.

$400,000 FIRE IN COLUMBUS

Two Lumber Yards and Warehouse Damaged.

COLUMBUS, June 30. — Lightning was believed responsible today for fire which caused a loss exceeding $250,000 to properties here of the Sowers-Benhow Lumber company, the Scioto Lumber and Supply company and the I. H. Schlezinger Junk company warehouse alongside the Central railroad yards.

More than 15,000 persons watched the spectacular blaze, lasting more than six hours, which originated in the Sowers-Benhow lumber yard. More than 1,000,000 feet of lumber were destroyed. A 500-gallon tank of gasoline was destroyed. A number of firemen were severely burned and overcome by heat and smoke.

Soldiers from Fort Hayes, the local United States army barracks, aided the city firemen in fighting the flames. Practically all of the city's fire-fighting apparatus was used in response to three alarms. Boy Scouts afforded the firefighters relief from the terrific heat by furnishing them with milk and water.

Practically all loss is covered by insurance, it was stated.

Firemen were kept at the scene of the fire all forenoon playing water upon the smouldering debris.

The fire was discovered shortly before midnight, a few minutes after persons in the vicinity of the lumber yard had noted a long flash of lightning, followed by a deafening clap of thunder.

Many of the day firemen were called from their beds to aid the members of the night shift in fighting the fire.

Injured firemen include:

Fireman Shipley, No. 16 company, burned about hands and arms, and Fireman Zoyer, No. 1 truck company, arms and elbows burned.

Properties of the two lumber companies were practically wiped out. The Schlesinger company sustained a loss estimated at not less than $50,000.

Common Pleas Judge Daniel H. Sowers is president of the Sowers-Benbow company.

A couple of nearby residences were destroyed, with a total loss estimated at $15,000. Loss sustained by the Sowers - Benbow company includes 250,000 feet of high grade finished lumber.

While four pump companies continued to battle the flames during the forenoon, a check-up revealed five firemen injured.

BIG RAILROADS PLAN TO MERGE VARIOUS LINES

Convinced Federal Board Has Abandoned Major Group Move.

SCHEME SCRAPPED

L. F. Loree, Delaware and Hudson Chief, Visits Capital.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The big railroad executives of the country, apparently convinced that the interstate commerce commission has abandoned hope of consolidating the railroads into 19 major groups, as outlined in the transportation act of 1920, are now centering their plans on merging various lines to meet their own individual requirements.

The fact that the commission has virtually scrapped its tentative consolidation plan was emphasized today after L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson, had spent a day with members of the interstate commerce commission and several members of the senate and house interested in railroad legislation.

Loree's mission was to explain his project of merging the Kansas City Southern, of which he is chairman of the board, with the St. Louis Southwestern and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroads. The Loree application is expected to be filed with the commission some time this week.

On its heels will come the renewed Van Sweringen application to merge the Chesapeake and Ohio, Hocking Valley, Pere Marquette, Erie and Nickel Plate, followed by the plan of the Rock Island system to absorb the St. Louis-San Francisco lines.

Wets Have Spent $1,100,000 Against National Dry Law

WASHINGTON, June 30. — In its war against the national dry law and its drive for the election of wet congress, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment has spent $1,100,000 in the last six years, Captain William H. Stayton, its head, testified today before the senate slush fund committee at the opening of its wet inquiry.

The association spent an average of about $160,000 in the five years preceding 1925, but its expenditures last year totalled $300,000, Stayton said.

In the present year, he declared, the organization probably would have a total fund of $600,000 to spend on the wet cause.

Disabled War Vet Charged With Murder of Daughter

Seattle Man Demands Early Trial When Accused of Death of Girl Whose Body is Found on Shore of Lake.

SEATTLE, June 30.—An early trial will be demanded by Wallace C. "Bob" Gaines, disabled war veteran, charged with the murder of his beautiful 22-year-old daughter, Sylvia Gaines, whose body was found on the shore of Green Lake, June 17.

Counsel for the accused father in attendance at the coroner's inquest at which Gaines, himself, had testified and which was dramatically halted as the arrest of Gaines was ordered, announced that they were confident their client could clear himself.

Interest hinged today in a secret report of Luke May, famous criminologist. When all other efforts failed May was called into the case. He started a secret probe in which ashes were dug up back of the Gaines home, clothing taken from the home was examined and it is understood that it was upon his report that the arrest was ordered.

The pretty Smith college graduate, whose slaying was declared by police to have been one of the most brutal crimes in the history of Seattle, was last seen alive on the night of June 16.

The following day her body, almost entirely disrobed, was found on the shores of the lake.

After a number of suspects had been arrested and released, the investigation suddenly turned toward the girl's father, Wallace "Bob" Gaines. A preliminary examination by members of the prosecuting attorney's office exonerated him of the crime.

Because of the prominence of the principals and the nature of the crime the case caused the greatest interest here and finally public opinion became so heated that Coroner Corson decided to hold an inquest.

After numerous witnesses had been examined, Gaines himself was called to the stand.

Gaines related his movements on the night of the murder with remarkable composure and the inquest began to show signs of coming to a close with nothing having been accomplished. Then the investigation rushed forward to a startling climax. Prosecutor Colvin had finally been convinced there was cause for action and the arrest of Gaines followed.

Sylvia Gaines came here from the east last September. Her mother lives at Lynnfield, Mass.

NORTHERN OHIO ENJOYS MILD WEATHER AFTER ONE-DAY HEAT WAVE

Col. Archer's Address

lumbing firm of Zange & Bence. He s making a tour of the country in the nterests of the National Trade Exten ion bureau. He is a world traveler, aving spent several years in Europe nd Asia, where he made a study of anitation problems.

At the opening of his address, he aid the sanitation systems in use in any of the larger cities of the United tates are practically the same as hose which were used by the ancients.

"A few years ago I stood in the city f Babylon, which 5,000 years ago oasted a population of several mil ion people," Acher said. "That city ad a sewer system equally as good s New York's. Wherever a civiliza ion has lived and prospered it has had anitation or it could not have become what it is now."

He cited the fact that last year the National Trade Extension bureau established 79 schools in which the plumbing and other building trades were taught. He asserted there is demand for at least 3,500 journeymen plumbers in the United States this year.

"But the plumbing trade is only one of the building crafts which is suffering from the lack of workers," he said. According to statistics, Col. Archer declared, but 375 men learned the plastering trade last year.

"If this keeps up plasterers will be placed in museums where an admission will be charged to see them. Similar shortages have been reported in the bricklaying, carpenter, electrician and other building crafts throughout the country.

Chance for Over-privileged Boy.

"We often hear the statement that all men are created free and equal," he said. "I will grant that all men are created free but I deny that all are created equal. In Europe the day that a boy is born he is dedicated to the trade, business or profession of his father. There are stores in London where the names above the doors look as though they have not been changed for a thousand years. Just as soon as the father dies his sons take over the business and so on.

"Some years ago, every president of the United States used to point to the log hut or cabin where he was born. With our big institutions and hospitals today what chance has a man to become president? When he matures he can point to a hospital and say it was there where he first saw the light of day.

"The American boy today is being taught that there is something wrong with the man who works with his hands with the result that the building trades are suffering. Can you think of anything bigger for a man to accomplish than to erect a gigantic bridge across the river, to build the big ocean liners and other similar feats?

"Not many mothers would take pride to see her daughter come walking home in the evening with the man in overalls. Yet that is the way that Henry Ford, Charles Schwab and other present day captains of industry obtained their start. I am pleading to you for an equal chance for this over-privileged boy.

"The over-privilegede boy is forgetting how to walk. He rides to school in an automobile. Boys used to run their mother's errands, but in this day of inventions the telephones are used for that work.

"I appeal to you fathers to make companions of your boys and of your neighbor's boy. Get out in the alley and play ball with them—forget chasing the ball around the golf links. In this way you Rotarians will be able to 'profit most by serving best.'"

The catering plant and the company in Lynn that supplied the ice cream for the banquet voluntarily closed today pending a complete investigation by health officials.

Mercury Reaches 92-degree Mark in East Liverpool While Thousands Swelter in Other Cities.

MOTHS RIDE ON LAKE BREEZES

Hot Spell Broken in Sandusky by Severe Electrical and Wind Storm of Almost Tornado Proportions.

CLEVELAND, June 30.—Northern Ohio was enjoying mild weather today as the result of cooling lake breezes which followed yesterday's heat spell. The sun, however, was scheduled to put in some more good licks in the central part of the state and along the Kentucky border, according to the weatherman.

The mercury reached almost 90 degrees in the shade here late yesterday, setting a high mark for the year. Relief was brought thousands of sweltering Clevelanders by a brisk thunder shower accompanied by a high wind that did come damage to trees and outbuildings.

The lake winds which set in last night blew myriads of large moths, known as "Canadian soldiers," into the city. This morning the walls of downtown buildings, sidewalks and trees were covered with the insects.

Tiffin Has Highest Temperature.

"Yesterday's heat wave was too short lived in the northern part of the state to do much damage," the weatherman said today. "The warm weather was followed too quickly by showers and cool winds."

Tiffin, Ohio, reported the highest temperature in the state with a mark of 94; East Liverpool had 92; Marion, Newark and Zanesville had 90; Dayton 89½; Columbus, Cincinnati, Marietta and Lima 89, and Akron 84.

SANDUSKY, June 30.—The hot spell was broken here by a severe electrical storm accompanied by winds of almost tornado proportions which caused much damage to small buildings, telephone poles and trees. Cherry orchards south of here were hard hit and many bushels of ripening fruit were ruined.

MARIETTA, June 30.—During the night thunder showers cooled the atmosphere here after a maximum temperature yesterday of 89 degrees.

Mercury Soars in Dayton.

DAYTON, June 30.—This city's first real heat wave of the year started yesterday when the mercury climbed to 89½ for the day, establishing a record for the year.

A rainstorm last night, notwithstanding its short duration, cooled the air and made sleeping more comfortable.

The weatherman promises continued warm today and suggested that the "wave might continue during the rest of the week.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, June 30.—A rush to buy United States Steel and General Motors in early trading today made speculative leaders the outstanding features of the market. General Motors rose to 148⅞, shattering all of the previous high records of the year.

Willys Overland also continued its spectacular market career, with heavy trading at 30 which represents a steady advance of nearly 10 points on the movement. Under the respective leadership of American Smelting and United Cigar Stores, the copper and tobacco stocks enjoyed a strong and active market; Independent Steel stocks and public utilities advanced into slightly higher price ground in active trading.

Rails and oils were steady, but featureless, with dividend stocks like Atchison and New York Central in the former, and Shell Union and Marland in the latter receiving the most notice. Rubber and tire stocks were again irregular.

Call money renewals continued at 5 per cent; French francs and other European currencies were unsteady, france declining to 2.80½.

$400,000 FIRE IN COLUMBUS

Two Lumber Yards and Warehouse Damaged.

COLUMBUS, June 30. — Lightning was believed responsible today for fire which caused a loss exceeding $250,000 to properties here of the Sowers-Benhow Lumber company, the Scioto Lumber and Supply company and the I. H. Schlezinger Junk company warehouse alongside the Central railroad yards.

More than 15,000 persons watched the spectacular blaze, lasting more than six hours, which originated in the Sowers-Benhow lumber yard. More than 1,000,000 feet of lumber were destroyed. A 500-gallon tank of gasoline was destroyed. A number of firemen were severely burned and overcome by heat and smoke.

Soldiers from Fort Hayes, the local United States army barracks, aided the city firemen in fighting the flames. Practically all of the city's fire-fighting apparatus was used in response to three alarms. Boy Scouts afforded the firefighters relief from the terrific heat by furnishing them with milk and water.

Practically all loss is covered by insurance, it was stated.

Firemen were kept at the scene of the fire all forenoon playing water upon the smouldering debris.

The fire was discovered shortly before midnight, a few minutes after persons in the vicinity of the lumber yard had noted a long flash of lightning, followed by a deafening clap of thunder.

Many of the day firemen were called from their beds to aid the members of the night shift in fighting the fire.

Injured firemen include:

Fireman Shipley, No. 16 company, burned about hands and arms, and Fireman Zoyer, No. 1 truck company, arms and elbows burned.

Properties of the two lumber companies were practically wiped out. The Schlesinger company sustained a loss estimated at not less than $50,000.

Common Pleas Judge Daniel H. Sowers is president of the Sowers-Benbow company.

A couple of nearby residences were destroyed, with a total loss estimated at $15,000. Loss sustained by the Sowers - Benbow company includes 250,000 feet of high grade finished lumber.

While four pump companies continued to battle the flames during the forenoon, a check-up revealed five firemen injured.

BETTER JAMS AND JELLIES

At Lower Cost

The modern, short-boil methkod of making jams and jellies with Certo delights women everywhere because it is so simple, so sure, so practical and so improves the color and flavor of their jams and jellies.

With Certo your fruit jells perfectly every time, with only one or two minutes' boiling. This saves the bright color and delicately luscious flavor of your fresh fruit and gives you a larger amount of jam or jelly from your fruit because you save all the juice which used to boil away.

Women who have figured the cost both ways find their cost per glass two or three cents less when they use Certo.

Certo is a pure fruit product—the jellying substance of fruit refined and bottled. A book of simple, tested recipes comes with each bottle. Your grocer carries Certo, or you can send 10c (for postage) and get a trial half-size bottle which will make from 6 to 10 glasses of jam or jelly, depending upon the recipe used. LISBON

M. K. Zimerman, West Park Ave. Phone 319-R. Lisbon, O.

COUNTY OFFICE IS BUSY PLACE

Record Number of New Mortgages Being Filed Daily.

New chattel mortgages are being filed with Recorder Paul Smith at the rate of about 75 a day, it was announced by Mr. Smith today, and with cancellations averaging about half that number. As a result of the few cancellations the chattel mortgage of the recorder's office is becoming clogged and cramped for room.

"Hundreds of chattel mortgages are in a condition that would permit their cancellation, but firms are very slow about it," Mr. Smith explained. "I barely estimate there are at least 5,000 chattel mortgages now on file that could be cancelled, but we are powerless to take them from the record unless we are authorized."

BETTER JAMS AND JELLIES

At Lower Cost

The modern, short-boil methkod of making jams and jellies with Certo delights women everywhere because it is so simple, so sure, so practical and so improves the color and flavor of their jams and jellies.

With Certo your fruit jells perfectly every time, with only one or two minutes' boiling. This saves the bright color and delicately luscious flavor of your fresh fruit and gives you a larger amount of jam or jelly from your fruit because you save all the juice which used to boil away.

Women who have figured the cost both ways find their cost per glass two or three cents less when they use Certo.

Certo is a pure fruit product—the jellying substance of fruit refined and bottled. A book of simple, tested recipes comes with each bottle. Your grocer carries Certo, or you can send 10c (for postage) and get a trial half-size bottle which will make from 6 to 10 glasses of jam or jelly, depending upon the recipe used. If you like thrills, if you want to laugh, if you like romance, if you enjoy good acting, if you can appreciate a marvelous cast go to the American theatre tomorrow and see "The New Commandment," Robert T. Kane's initial picture for First National. It has all of the above and much more besides.

In the cast are Blanche Sweet, Ben Lyon, Holbrook Blinn, Dorothy Cummings, George Cooper, Pedro De Cordova, Effie Shannon and many others.

Illinois American Legion Hits Record In Member Drive

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. — The American Legion in Illinois has smashed its records for the years 1922, 1923, 1924 and 1925. To date this year 61,300 members have been enrolled.

Illinois, according to state officers, is the first large department to pass its 1925 enrollment and has just won a tri-state contest with New York and Pennsylvania, for which a cup will be awarded at the national convention in Philadelphia next October.

Eyelashes Now Curved.

By the use of a tiny metal device which when heated and clamped over them and left for a few moments, eyelashes now may be "curled," and the vogue is being used by women of the stage and screen to get a "turned up" effect on them. The lashes are not in reality curled but are made to turn up noticeably.

Laughlin Regains League Lead By Trimming Chester, 8 to 7

Darkness Ends Clash In Fifth After Spurt By Riley Nine Fails

Battle Draws Out Greatest Crowd of Season; Fans Stick to Seats Until Street Lights go on and Losers' Last Hope Fades; Digman Effective Until Fifth.

WEST VIRGINIA clubs of the City Industrial league, Laughlin and Chester clashed on the latter's field last evening with the top rung of the organization race as the grand prize in the background of the contest. Following a terrific battle, witnessed by one of the largest throngs of the season, the potters finally won in the semi-darkness of the fifth inning, while the losers who had the trying and winning runs on the bases after ten men had batted in that torrid period, sent over five tallies and all but overcame the big lead that had been maintained against them. The score at the conclusion of hostilities was 8 to 7.

As a result Chester dropped from first to second place in the club standing while Laughlin took for the moment the coveted place at the head of the six-team procession.

Seemingly inspired after their defeat of Monday night by the K. T. K. team at Columbian park by the score of 1 to 0 by the return to the fold of one of their strongest hitters last year—Ross Tisher, who after witnessing the initial game of the 1926 season at Newell, W. Va., hied himself to the fishing pools of Colorado so as to be in condition for the second section of the year's play the club rallied around Pitcher Digman and after being scored against twice in the first inning came back, tied the count and then forged to the front from which they were not displaced despite the powerful threat and effort of the Chester aggregation in the final period of batting.

Tisher Joins Mates.

Tisher reached East Liverpool about 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and the first thing he did after getting into his Northside home was to procure a copy of the Evening Review and find out for the first time since early May what had been happening to his old baseball club. He was startled to note that his mates were to stand Chester in a critical contest for the top of the heap in a few hours. He found his uniform, jumped into it, drove to Chester and there greeted Manager McCoy and the others of the club on the Laughlin bench. There was a reunion with plenty of enthusiasm and the men, exhilerated, went out to win.

Tisher, not in form, did not get into the lineup, but engaged in fielding practice out in his old bailiwick in right field. But he sat throughout on the bench and upon the base lines as coach and assisted in cheering on the players in the masterful game which they exhibited throughout the nerve racking contest.

Because of time out in the second inning to discuss a play at first base the game was prolonged until the lights were lighted on Chester streets as the final batting was being done. At the time Finley, hitting safely, and Aufterheide, walking, were at third and second respectively following a sacrifice by Babb. Then W. Watson, the brilliant second sacker of the Laughlin club, hit one to Wilde which was too hot for him to handle. The ball bounded from his hands into the newly constructed wire screen bask of first base and rebounded into his hands, as he essayed to recover it. He was thus enabled to touch the bag before the on-coming Watson. Finley scored on the play. Laughlin argued that Watson was safe and should be allowed to go to second on the play. In the end after the umpires had consulted with each other and the players of both clubs Watson was permitted his base only. Then Watson stole second and on W. McMath's overthrow to that station Aufterheide counted making the score 2 to 2.

Chester was quickly blanked by the Laughlinites. Aufterheide, in right, rushing into the crowd in that section and taking down the fly of P. Cebula. It was a fine catch.

Then Laughlin rushed in and scored three more runs as eight men batted. Crawford flew to Shaw in that interim. Parsons reached second as Green booted his drive and threw high to first. Herbert walked, Finley singled and Parsons counted, Herbert going to third. On a zigzagging attempt to get Finley between first and second Herbert stole home, Finley going to third and scoring as Babb beat out a bunt after Audterheide had walked. The latter reached second on the play and stole third as W. Watson struck out. Hunselman then fanned.

Laughlin Scores in Fifth.

Blanked in the fourth, Laughlin, with nine men hitting, scored three more in the fifth. After L. McMath had thrown out Herbert at first, Finley beat out a slow drive to short. On P. Cebula's throw Wilde muffed and the runner went to second. Aufterheide missed the third strike, which W. McMath dropped, both runners being safe as the backstop tried to get Finley at third. Babb fanned. W. Watson was hit, clogging the bases. Reese ran for Watson. Hunselman walked, forcing in Finley. Digman singled, the ball hitting Umpire Hester in right, scoring Aufterheide. Crawford beat out an infield blow as Reese tore into the plate. W. McMath dropped the ball on M. Cebula's assist and the substitute runner also counted.

Stage Desperate Drive.

With the score 8 to 2 against them Chester came to baf in the final half of the fifth. Evans was up, but Potts was sent in to bat for him. He singled to left. C. Marshall, always bad in a pinch, followed instead of W. McMath, and was hit in the arm by Digman. Reese, running for Potts, went to second. M. Cebula drove a safe liner to left and Reese scored, making the count 8 to 3. L. McMath hit to W. Watson, who assisted to Finley, forcing M. Cebula at second as C. Marshall held up at third. G. Cebula, batting for Shaw, fanned. P. Cebula sent a long drive to deep middle. Crawford tried for it and barely touched the ball as he collided with a woman spectator of those seated under the cherry trees. On the play C. Marshall and L. McMath crossed the plate and P. Cebula reached third, the score being 8 to 5.

Green drove to W. Watson, who booted the blow and P. Cebula finished, making the figures 8 to 6.

Wilde, next up, doubled to middle, sending Green in with what became Chester's final tally and making the count 8 to 7.

Suder Supplants Digman.

On the throw to the plate the ball went into the crowd and Wilde, apparently caught at second, was declared safe as a result. He later stole third. F. Marshall was sent in to bat for Wyant and drew a walk off Suder, who had just supplanted Digman on the hilltop. He purloined second. The tying and winning run were on the bases as P. Bennett, swatting in the place where Evans and Potts had previously bingled, faced Suder. He swung and missed three strikes.

Though he fanned eight men, M. Cebula had a streak of wildness during the contest in which he walked two and hit two men. All of these were costly. He permitted eight hits, all singles, one being so by striking Umpire Hester. At the bat, however, he came through and drove in the first of the five runs which Chester made in the fateful fifth inning.

Digman was effective throughout the contest until the last period of Chester batting when darkness made it impossible to know accurately what one was doing. He held the heavy hitting Chester players to six hits before he gave way to Suder who pitched to two men to conclude the contest.

The third out had seemingly been made on Wilde at second base at that juncture, but because the ball had been thrown into the crowd he was ruled safe and though the fans, thinking the game over, thronged the field, they good naturedly resumed their places and stood up amid great excitement as Suder retired P. Bennett after walking F. Marshall, both functioning in the role of pinch hitters.

Draws on Reserves.

Manager Riley drew on his reserves in an emphatic way in that interim of play and all but got the needed runs to win the contest.

W. Watson, hit by M. Cebula in the side in fifth inning, was forced to permit Reese to run for him. The lad, previously having sprained a ligament, suffered acutely for a while and was examined by Dr. Campbell, who found that no ribs had been broken. The lad, despite this handicap, gamely went to his place in the second station for the final half of the fifth. Under the circumstances his boot of Greene's blow was quite excusable.

Hunselman, as he has been doing lately, caught a great game; Babb, batting at a .500 clip for the day, played sensationally on first base. His keeping his foot on the bag after Finley had thrown wildly to him on Wyant's rap in the fourth, was a great piece of work. He fell headlong but took the fall rather than yield his advantage with the bag and the runner was out. Finley had a perfect day at the bat with three swats in as many times up. Parsons scored once and had a safe drive besides contributing two fine catches.

Mewha Brothers Will Pilot Cars In Lisbon Event

Former Chester Boys Among Entries for Speed Awards.

WILLIAM and Harry Mewha, former Chester boys who now claim Wellsburg as their home, have entered fast cars in the 50-mile speed event scheduled for the Lisbon fairgrounds on Monday, July 5. The race is attracting entries from a large number of noted dirt track pilots of the tri-state district and the former Chester lads are expected to draw their share of attention.

Because dirt track racing offers more thrills per mile and minute, scores of sportsmen are taking up this fascinating form of sport.

One of the most daring of these drivers is Jack Martin of Dennison who will pilot his Princess Pat Special at Lisbon. Martin has the reputation of providing fans with more thrills than any other driver on Tri-State tracks. He is a fearless racer.

Among the entries for the Lisbon event are included Joe Grant, with a Roof Special; "Speed" Harris, with a Jordan Special; Bud Hinkley, Roof Special; Kenneth Green, Rajo Special; George Decker, Chevrolet Special; J. Jones, Hudson Special.

William Mewha will drive a Roof Special and his brother, Harry, will ride in a Haynes Special.

Risko Made 8 to 5 Favorite to Beat Ex-Crown Holder

Backers of Cleveland Pug, However, Find Cash Scarce.

NEW YORK, June 30. — Although Johnny Risko, Cleveland scrapper, has been made an 8-5 favorite to defeat Mike McTigue, in their 10-round shindy in the garden tomorrow night, there is little or no McTigue money in sight. The Risko backers searched all over the roarin' Forties yesterday to lay their sugar, but found it a waste of time.

The biggest betting attraction of the show is the first ten rounder, between Johnny Filucci and Jackie Snyder. Snyder ruled a 1 to 11 favorite, with wagers of all sizes being made.

CINCINNATI CITY GOLF PLAY OPENS

CINCINNATI, June 30.—Playing a consistent game, with grim determination, Harold Leblond, Cincinnati Country club star, today stood winner of medalist honors in the greater city golf tournament, leading the first flight contenders with 156 for the qualifying 36 holes. He scored a 76 Tuesday, while his Monday card was 80. He drew one of the first games in the match play.

Extremely fast greens the first day, slowed down Tuesday with water, caused the high score of 168 to qualify. Three flights teed off this afternoon for the actual tourney play.

Faltering Pirates to Sign Joe Bush, Nat Castoff, Today

PITTSBURGH, June 30.—Joe Bush, American league castoff, is expected to become a member of the Pirate pitching staff today.

Bush, for whom two other major league clubs have been angling, was scheduled to go into conference with Manager McKechnie and Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss sometime during the day and it is expected that terms will be agreed upon at once.

Bush has been keeping in trim since being given his unconditional release by the Washington Senators last week and probably will be ready to go on the mound for the Corsairs before the end of the week.

SKULL PRACTICE

Manager McCarthy, of the Cubs, has inaugurated a "bench" manager to keep the players there from falling asleep. The rules won't allow one on the playing field.

Manager Harris, of the Senators, doesn't need a bench manager to prevent his extra men falling asleep. He needs a doctor in the dugout to keep 'em from dying of old age.

McCarthy has an understanding with his bench manager that the latter will also remain awake.

The Red Sox owners are thinking of hiring half a dozen such managers to scatter through the grandstand—one to a customer.

"Robins Get Bohne," says Brooklyn sport page headline. Those birds don't need bone. What they need is bird seed.

Western Association fans have seen over 300 home runs so far this season—and would trade the whole lot for a dozen of Babe Ruth's selected circuit clouts.

Ruth wraps his up so neatly with his bat that some lucky fan can carry it home.

When you discuss the Babe's homers you always start with 1921—just like Uncle Ed used to date everything from the year of the grasshoppers.

Everytime Ruth socks a home run these days he lays the cornerstone for another cipher in his new contract to be drawn up next winter.

NEW YORK, June 30.—New York today was preparing to do honor to Bobby Jones, the first American amateur to win the British open golf championship, upon his arrival in this country on Friday. Mayor Walker has appointed a special committee of 100 to greet the new champion as he steams up the bay and a delegation from his home town of Atlanta will be on hand to receive its most famous son.

Father-Son Tourney Draws 150 Entries

W. E. Wells and J. M. Wells in Annual Event at Pittsburgh Field Club Tee Off at 1:50.

APPROXIMATELY 150 Tri-State golfers are competing today in the annual father and son tournament at the Pittsburgh Field club, among whom are listed J. M. Wells and his father, W. E. Wells, of Newell.

On account of the unusually large entry list, play began this morning, inaugurated by Hugo Bezdek, director of athletics at Penn State, and his son, Hugo, Jr.

W. E. Wells and the former Ohio amateur champ were slated to tee off at 1:50 p. m., along with C. L. and Charles A. Totten.

Among the entries are: James Francis Burke, founder of the movement, and his son, J. Scott Burke; Augustus K. Oliver and his son, Joseph W. Oliver; James B. Crookston, former western Pennsylvania amateur champion, and James W. Crookston, former state amateur and West Penn title holder; John Graham, winner of the recent Allegheny tournament, and his son, William Graham; Dr. F. H. Darragh, and Harry Darragh, who hails from Beaver Falls; Thomas Semans, and Edwin W. Semans, of Uniontown; Dr. Gourley and Russell Gourley, of Punxsutawney.

Medal Play.

Play consists of 18 holes medal play, Scotch foursome, with the father and son playing alternate strokes. There will be prizes for the low gross and the low net score, and for the pair bagging the most eagles and birdies on the round. At 5 o'clock there will be a long driving contest.

At noon there will be luncheon served which will be followed by a brief business session at which officers will be elected for the ensuing year. In the evening there will be a dinner, followed by a ball, at which the contestants together with their wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts will be guests of the club. This is an innovation, as in former years the affair was confined exclusively to the dads and their sons.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

It will be almost impossible to keep body and club together properly in the forward swing unless the player introduces a slight pause at the top of the back swing. When the player has the habit of jumping forward through the hips to start the down swing he invariably jumps forward with his body a moment before his club has finished going up in the back swing. The club must reverse its direction before it can start downward and that takes just an instant. The momentary pause is required because the reversal of the club's direction cannot be accomplished and balance be maintained at the same time without the slight hesitation. The pause is more to maintain balance than anything else.

Latzo Proves He's Genuine Champ By Stopping Harmon

Coal Miner Hands Foe First K. O. of Career.

NEWARK, N. J., June 30.—Any lingering doubts that Pete Latzo, king of the welterweight division, is a real champion had been dispelled today as a result of Latzo's knockout of Willie Harmon in the fifth round of their fight here last night. Making his first offensive since winning the title from Mickey Walker, the Scranton miner settled the issue with a hard right to the body and two staggering lefts to the jaw when the round was almost ended.

It was the first time in his career that Harmon had been knocked out.

ICHARD DIX IN COMEDY HIT

"Let's Get Married" Coming to Ceramic Theatre.

As Richard Dix romps and battles his way from dilemma to predicament in his new farce comedy, "Let's Get Married," which comes to the Ceramic Thursday, he is accompanied by a bunch of "regular guys" of his own selection.

There is "Gunboat" Smith, an expugilist who has played in many other films with Dix and exchanged blows with him. "Gunboat" is the detective who dogs Dick's devious detours in "Let's Get Married."

Dix has as his boon companion in the picture, Nat Pendleton, wrestling champion of Europe. He rose to this eminence after winning the intercollegiate title for Columbia University in 1914. Later, he won a place on the Olympic team. Nat's versatility has been displayed before in both histronic and directorial capacity on the screen.

With Dix and Pendleton, we find Douglas MacPherson, former football star of the Detroit High school, who has the role of Tommy. MacPherson however, modestly disclaims any particular right to fame as a football player; but admits he's pretty good at checkers, and expects someday to take up golf. This is his first picture in several years, having devoted himself recently to the Broadway stage.

Trailing this trio through the thrills, or if you will, reeling through the reels; are an organ grinder and a street sweeper. Both of them are hefty lads who would be handy to have around in an emergency, but neither of them is professionally proficient in the rugged pastimes.

The cast of extras, is also well sprinkled with exponents of agility and prowess. They include Phil Bloom who acquired his cauliflower ears in many a ring battle; and Charlie Young, a vaudeville tumbler whose business it is to get thrown through a window. Sort of a "picking up" business.

Richard's tough gang in "Let's Get Married," is not due entirely to his liking of young fellows who are able to argue and back their arguments; but also to the fact that "Let's Get Married" calls for more robust scrapping than any picture he has made lately. Lois Wilson, who is featured, contributes her part in injecting some feminine beauty to offset all these pugnacious men. Gregory La Cava directed for Paramount.

Haskin's Letter

dently predict that they will overthrow the Government, because the majority are not interested in the maintenance of a free government.

In launching the 1926 campaign, which is aimed both to get out the vote and to stimulate interest in government, Federal, State and local, the National Civic Federation is enlisting those organizations which it feels can be depended upon to do earnest work in every community, and do it on a non-partisan basis. The American Legion, which by its national constitution bars partisanship from any of its activities, has accepted the invitation to cooperate, and the Boy Scouts have offered their services for work in assisting the local committees. Other organizations will be added in a comprehensive plan designed to carry the message of the citizen's urgent duty to as many people as possible.

The acceptance by Mr. Hammond of leadership in this work has given new courage to many earlier workers who have been somewhat discouraged by the meagre results achieved. The National League of Women Voters disappointed because since women have had the ballot much less than half of them have exercised the duty and privilege of voting, will make a new drive to stimulate the female vote. An effort will be kept up until November to score the greatest Congressional vote ever recorded.

"Let's Get Married" Coming to Ceramic Theatre.

As Richard Dix romps and battles his way from dilemma to predicament in his new farce comedy, "Let's Get Married," which comes to the Ceramic Thursday, he is accompanied by a bunch of "regular guys" of his own selection.

There is "Gunboat" Smith, an ex-pugilist who has played in many other films with Dix and exchanged blows with him. "Gunboat" is the detective who dogs Dick's devious detours in "Let's Get Married."

Dix has, as his boon companion in the picture, Nat Pendleton, wrestling champion of Europe. He rose to this eminence after winning the intercollegiate title for Columbia University in 1914. Later, he won a place on the Olympic team. Nat's versatility has been displayed before in both histronic and directorial capacity on the screen.

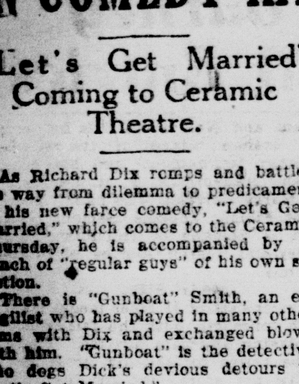

With Dix and Pendleton, we find Douglas MacPherson, former football star of the Detroit High school, who has the role of Tommy. MacPherson however, modestly disclaims any particular right to fame as a football player; but admits he's pretty good at checkers, and expects someday to take up golf. This is his first picture in several years, having devoted himself recently to the Broadway stage.

Trailing this trio through the thrills, or if you will, reeling through the reels; are an organ grinder and a street sweeper. Both of them are hefty lads who would be handy to have around in an emergency, but neither of them is professionally proficient in the rugged pastimes.

The cast of extras, is also well sprinkled with exponents of agility and prowess. They include Phil Bloom who acquired his cauliflower ears in many a ring battle; and Charlie Young, a vaudeville tumbler whose business it is to get thrown through a window. Sort of a "picking up" business.

Richard's tough gang in "Let's Get Married," is not due entirely to his liking of young fellows who are able to argue and back their arguments; but also to the fact that "Let's Get Married" calls for more robust scrapping than any picture he has made lately. Lois Wilson, who is featured, contributes her part in injecting some feminine beauty to offset all these pugnacious men. Gregory La Cava directed for Paramount.

Haskin's Letter

dently predict that they will overthrow the Government, because the majority are not interested in the maintenance of a free government.

In launching the 1926 campaign, which is aimed both to get out the vote and to stimulate interest in government, Federal, State and local, the National Civic Federation is enlisting those organizations which it feels can be depended upon to do earnest work in every community, and do it on a non-partisan basis. The American Legion, which by its national constitution bars partisanship from any of its activities, has accepted the invitation to cooperate, and the Boy Scouts have offered their services for work in assisting the local committees. Other organizations will be added in a comprehensive plan designed to carry the message of the citizen's urgent duty to as many people as possible.

The acceptance by Mr. Hammond of leadership in this work has given new courage to many earlier workers who have been somewhat discouraged by the meagre results achieved. The National League of Women Voters disappointed because since women have had the ballot much less than half of them have exercised the duty and privilege of voting, will make a new drive to stimulate the female vote. An effort will be kept up until November to score the greatest Congressional vote ever recorded.
